The Amapa Boundary—Brasil's Dispute with Italy.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—The Herald's correspondent in Rio de Janeiro telegraphs that Baron Rio Branco will represent the government of Brazil at Stockholm in the arbiration contest to settle the Amapa boundary question between France and Brazil.

The correspondent also says that unless Brazil's dispute with Italy is settled before the end of the month through the intervention of Signor Nobili, it is reported that Minister De Martine will return to Brazil with Italy's ultimatum. Italy claims damages for outrages upon Italian subjects in Brazil perpetrated, as alleged, during the revolution.

The majority of the cabinet, it is reported, will vote in favor of the peace terms proposed for the settlement of the difficulties in the Rio Grande do Sul.

The French Are Down on Americans.

Uncle Sam's People Refuse to Salute Them.

That Waller Case is Not Helping Out the Entente Cordiale.

No Doubt That the Ex-Consul Wrote Letters to the Hovas - Equity Rights and Cruel Treatment Have Helped His Case.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.) PARIS, Aug. 22.—By Atlantic Cable.)
The Temps publishes a letter from Tamatave, Madagascar, which says that the French are incensed at the commander of the American cruiser commander of the American cruiser Castine for refusing to salute the garrison and to accord other customary courtesles on the ground that America has not recognized the French protectorate. The Americans have also caused irritation by persisting in a personal investigation of the Waller case. The Tamatave letter adds that the commander of the Castine consulted the United States Consul in not saluting the garrison. EUSTIS SCORES A POINT.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—Acting Secretary of State Adee authorizes the statement that information has been received from Ambassador Eustis, in response to the general instructions cabled him three weeks ago, that a record of the proceedings and evidence in the court-martial of Waller at Tamatave is expected to reach Paris toward the end of this month. Ambassador Eustis also reports that access to Waller has been accorded him, after repeated and urgent requests. The department, not having been advised whether Eustis has taken advantage of this permission, has instructed him by cable to do so at once.

AN OFFICIAL STATEMENT. EUSTIS SCORES A POINT.

AN OFFICIAL STATEMENT. WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The follow-ing is given in official civiles as a fair statement of the Waller case so far as the facts have been reported to the United States:

There is no doubt that while in ountry occupied by the French, Walls country occupied by the French, Waller wrote letters to the people that the French were opposing them. These letters were traced to him and were made the pretext for his arrest and conviction. This arrest and conviction were irregular; his trial was not fair and during his imprisonment, both before and after conviction, he was treated with great harshness. He was brought to France chained to the deck of a steamer, and, though ill and suffering, he was treated with great harshness. He was imprisoned without proper care.

The French government has not explained in any satisfactory manner the irregular arrest and trial. It has noen attempted to excuse it by saying that in time of war military courts are different from civil proceedings in time of peace, but this explonation, in the opinion of the United States, does not meet the case, and in the opinion of the State Department there is a strong probability that Waller's treatment was due to the concessions he claimed in Madagascar.

State Department there is a strong probability that Waller's treatment was due to the concessions he claimed in Madagascar. "When the case was first presented to the Department of State it appeared that there was little that could be done for Waller. The first evidence furnished by the French government of Waller's indiscretions made his case look doubtful, but later developments, including the failure of the French government to explain the irreglar proceedings of the trial and unnecessarily harsh and inhuman treatment of the prisoner, and the demonstrated fact that Waller had some equity rights, at least, in Madagascar, made his case appear in a far better light. In view of what hes come to light as a rosult of later inquiries, it is held that the United States has good ground for demanding Waller's release and indeminity for his wrongs.

Adee adds that this result was reached after repeated telegraphic instructions, which show the constant activity of the department in Waller's case, and it is hoped that the production of evidence before the court-martial will enable the department to form a judgment touching the conviction of Waller. The international right of this government to demand the evidence on which conviction was reached, in order that it may better determine itz action in the case, is unquestionable, and is fortified by abundant precedent. In the case of the American citizens lately tried by a court-martial in Honolulu, on charges of the American citizens lately tried by a court-martial in Honolulu, on charges of the American citizens lately tried by a court-martial in Honolulu, on charges of the American citizens lately tried by a court-martial in Honolulu, on charges of the court were asked and the documents were promptly furnished. The delay of the French government of the Hawallan republic, the proceedings of the court which tried him remained in Tamatave, not-withstanding that our Consul at that place was informed on April 17 that it had already, at that date, been sent to France, and that th occasioned by the necessity of sending for it.

The department has no later information of the movements of Mrs. Waller and her children since the dispatch of Consul Campbell at Port Luis, Mauritius, announcing that, under the department's cabled instructions to provide them with passage home, they were to sail from that place for France on the 20th of this month on their way to the United States. Mr. Eustis has been instructed to take care of Mrs. Waller and the children on their arrival in France and to furnish them with passage to the United States by steamer.

cle printed this morning regarding the reason why Nazrulla Khan, the second son of the Ameer of Afghanistan, does not return home is virtually correct. The Chronicle says: "It is rumored from a good source that the Ameer has forbidden the shazada to return until he has secured Great Britain's consent that the Ameer shall be diplomatically represented at London. He desires to deal directly with the government instead of through the Viceroy of India. This impossible demand is supposed to explain the shazada's long stay."

According to the information obtained by the Associated Press a few weeks ago the shazada visited the Queen at Windsor Castle and personally informed Her Majesty that it was the Ameer's desire to be diplomatically represented at London instead of dealing with the British government through the Viceroy of India. The shazada expected an immediate answer, but Her Majesty replied that she could not decide without consulting her Ministers. Last week the shazada received a definite refusal and the situation now is unpleasant, if not serious, as the refusal amounts to a snub to the Ameer, and it is thought this may affect the relations between Great Britain and Afghanistan. The shazada starts for home via Paris next week.

United States.
"Annexation to the United States is looked forward to eagerly by every loyal resident of Hawaii," he said. "The only ones who oppose it are the Royalists. Annexation to Great Britain is not in favor at all. Neither is an American protectorate. The people desire to become a part of the American republic. Even the natives are fast be-coming advocates of annexation; they are gradually realising the difference between the monarchy under which they used to live and the government they used to live and the government for the people canducted by President Dole. One would naturally think the British residents would favor uniting the Islands to the realm of Queen Victoria, but such is not the case. Many of the British residents of Honolulu are the strongest advocates of the plan of making Hawaii a State of the United States. The annexation idea is so strong in the islands that I think it will never be obliterated until union with the United States is a fact."

The waves were running very high, and the officers had great difficulty to get to the drowning man. When they finally reached his side there was a fight, in which the boat was upset and the three officers were soon struggling in the water to save themselves. REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORTA OMAHA (Neb.,) Aug. 22.—If an effor as made to conciliate any warring elements in the ranks of the Nebrask Democrats, it was not in evidence at the State Democratic Convention to day. Prior to the session there was some talk about the silver and gold wings of the party combining, but if such a plan was seriously contemplated, it was early abandoned. From 2 o'clock, when Chairman Smith convened the body, until 11 o'clock to-night, when the curtain went down in the hall, silver was the only apparent financial problem before the convention. But it was essentially a convention of the advocates of the netal in the party, and the other wing ignored the mutiny today and will con vene at Lincoln September 5.

Edgar Howard was made permanent hairman without opposition, and the following nominations were made by acclamation:

Supreme Court Judge, E. J. Phelps.
Regents of the State University—Dr.
H. S. Blackburne and J. J. Kettle.
After speeches of minor importance, bubbling over with silver sentiment and opposition to the A.P.A., the committee reported the following resolutions:
"We, the Democrats of Nebraska, in convention assembled, reaffirm our faith in those principles written in the Declaration of American Independence and emphasized by Jefferson and Jackson, namely, That all men are created equal; that they are endowed by the Creator with certain inalienable rights, among which are the following, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness; that governments are instituted among men to secure these rights and that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed, and we demand that all of the departments of the government, executive, legislative and fuddied send fu

"We believe the restoration of the money of the Constitution is now the paramount issue before the country and insist that all parties shall plainly state their respective positions on the question in order that voters may intelligently express their preference. and unlimited coinage of gold and silver at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1, as such coinage existed prior to 1873, without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation, such gold and silver coin to be a full legal tender for all debts, public and private.

"We send greeting to our Democratic brethren throughout the Union, who are making such a brilliant fight for the restoration of bimetallism, and congratulate them on the progress made.

"We deprecate and denounce, as un-American and subversive of the principles of free government, any attempt to control the action of the political parties of this country by secret cabals or organizations of any characted, and warn the people against the danger to our institutions which lurks under any such secret organization, whether on religious, political or other differences of opinion.

"Recognizing that the stability of our institutions must rest on the virtue and intelligence of the people, we stand as in the past, in favor of the free, common-school system of the State, and dclare that the same must be per-common-school system of the State and delare that the same must be per-petuated and receive perpetual finan-cial support, and that the management and control of said school system should be non-sectarian and non-parti-

"The Democracy of Nebraska approves and commends the declaration of President Cleveland in the past in condemning the pernicious activity of condemning the pernicious activity of incumbents of Federal offices under the incumbents of Federal offices under the government in attempting to control the policy and nominations of their parties and we hereby recommend the renewal of the policy of his first administration in that regard."

A delegate attempted to place the following before the convention as the minority report:

"We commend the administration of President Cleveland as being able, honest and patriotic and we reaffirm the platform, adopted by the Democratic National Convention at Chicago in 1892."

Searcely had the first word been ut tered when the whole convention was protesting. There was such a roar that order was not established for ten min-utes, when the offending resolution was tabled without comment. SECRETARY MORTON'S LITTLE SCHEME.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The recent payment of salaries at the Agricultural Department in silver dollars has called attention to the fact that on two previous occasions employees were paid in gold. The department books show that on August 31, 1893, $19,900 in gold was paid to employees, and $800 in gold was paid to certain employees on August 15, 1894. In commenting on this statement, Secretary Morton said that, while under the recent payment there had been strenuous objections on the part of those paid in silver coin, the previous disbursement of gold met with no protests whatever. He added that he would, if necessary, put into actual practice the proposition to pay two Mexican dollars for every United States dollar when the present value of 52 cents was lowered to make the plan consistent. matter out of the hands of the regular accounting officers of the government. The language on which the motion is based is as follows:

"The bounty herein authorized to be paid shall be paid on presentation of such proof of manufacture and production as shall be required in each case by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Transport reasury, and for the payment of such sugar bounty the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to draw warrants on the Treasurer of the United States for such sums as shall be necessary, which sums shall be certified to him by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, by whom the bounty shall be disbursed, and no bounty shall be allowed or paid to any person as aforesaid, on any quantity of sugar less than 500 pounds."

If Mr. Manderson's motion prevails it will take the question of the bounty payment entirely out of Bowler's hands. While the language of the act seems to give color for the claim that the Secretary of the Treasury should issue warrants directly on the certificates of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, it is pointed out that the language of this appropriation is identical with that of the original McKinley bounty it is pointed out that the language of this appropriation is identical with that of the original McKinley bounty bill, which language was not treated either by the last or the present administration as taking those disbursements out of the hands of the regular accounting officers of the government.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—(By Atlantic Cable.) T. P. O'Connor today referred in the House of Commons to the case of Mrs. Maybrick, who is serving a term of imprisonment for poisoning her hus-band, and for whose pardon numerous petitions have been presented from Englishmen and Americans. O'Connor said in regard to her that there was an intense feeling of dissatisfaction by American men and women with the trial and conviction, and he believed that the Lord Chief Justice shared this dissatisfaction. He thought the time had come when there should be a re-vision of the unfortunate woman's sen-tence.

FOREIGNERS IN PERIL.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The Chinese Legation had not been apprised of the latest attack upon the American missions by the Chinese fanatics, near Foo-Chow, until shown the Associated Press dispatch bringing the news. The Minister expresses regret at the occurrence, through his interpreter.

It is freely admitted at the legation that, in the present state of feeling in China, growing out of the ignorance and prejudice of the natives, especially before the recent war, all foreigners in the interior of China are in more or less danger. The hope is expressed at the legation that the missionaries will recognize this state of things and will seek the treaty ports until the excitement subsides and normal conditions are restored.

The utmost confidence is expressed at the legation of the intention of the Chinese imperial government to protect the Christian missions as far as possible and the last edict from the Emperor issued within the past ten days is quoted as evidence of this intention. A quite full synopsis of this document has been received by cable at the legation. It is entirely in the interest of Christians and is directed especially to the high Chinese officials. They are asked to see that the lives and property of all Christians, both foreign and mative, are protected at all times. The edict also commands the lower officials and the people generally to observe this behest and closes by saying that any violation of the theroughness of the legation in the thoroughness of the legation in the thoroughness of the legation in the theroughness of the legation in the theroug punished.

Confidence is also expressed at the legation in the thoroughness of the investigation into the recent riots and it is believed there that as soon as the imperial will can be known, American and English consuls will be admitted to the hearing.

Fast Time.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Joe Patchen to-day won the great match race against John R. Gentry in straight heats. The Gentry in straight heats. The race took place on the famous Wash-ington Park track, but as a wind that amounted to almost a gale blew all af-ternoon a sensational time performance was out of the question. The three heats were covered in 2:05%, 2:07%

Nevertheless the contest is regarded Nevertheless the contest is regarded as one of the most important that has taken place on the trottling or pacing turf. Patchen's victory was decisive and seems to put his claim to first place among harness racers beyond dispute. Twelve thousand people saw the race, and the fact that betting was prohibited did not deter the crowd from showing a degree of enthusiasm that is seling a degree of enthusiasm that is seldom equalled at a horse race. Gentry was undoubtedly a slight favorite in the public well-wishers, but Patchen was cheered just the same. In what little betting there was outside of the track, Gentry also ruled a favorite at about 10 to 9.

At the end of the second heat oldtime horsemen were pronouncing it the greatest race in history. In these two miles Gentry was a close contestant and so, considering what was at stake, the contest was regarded as unprecedented. But the third heat went to the big black so easily that veterans were disposed to qualify their opinion: as to the pre-eminence of the race.

The start of the race, advertised to be at 2:30 o'clock was delayed in the hope that the wind might die down. It was blowing strong from the western prairies which had robbed it of its invigorating qualities so that the conditions were in every way against a good performance. But, at 3:15 o'clock the two giants of speed were called upon the track, although there had been no decrease in the arid gale. Curry and McHenry, the drillers, stood in the center of the track and tossed a coin for advantage of position. Curry won and thus got the pole. While appearances do not count for a great deal in the case of horses, Patchen's looks were so decidedly better that it caused misgivings in the minds of Gentry's supporters. Patchen appeared full of life and spirit. Gentry looked tired and when they scored for the first time
Patchem clearly showed more speed.
Gentry broke on the second attempt and acted ugly.

They were sent away on the first score together. Patchen moved slightly away, and for over a quarter of a mile led by nearly a length, the first quarter being done in 0:32. The second quarter they had the wind at their backs and raced the distance in 0:39%.
Nearing the half pole Gentry began to crawl up, and his friends tore sections out of the grand stand when he went past Patchen at the last turn as if it was no trouble at all. The third quarter was covered in 0:30 fiat, the fastest of the race. On turning into the stretch Gentry still led by a length or more, and his supporters were buoyant, but on the way to the wire the crowd was surprised to see Patchen, without being touched by the whip, come up on the outside, and on his own gam stood the lash, straining every nerve and being apparently in distress all the way, yet never once did he show the slightest inclination to break.

The third heat was easy all the way for Patchen, who led and won by two lengths. Time for quarters: 0:31%, 0:32%, 0:31%, 0:31%.

The only explanation offered after the race was by Driver McHenry and Owner Scott, that their horse was not in condition. "We made a mistake, they said, "in not sending him to Cleveland after the Freeport race. The other horse was on edge; ours was not."

Col. Taylor, owner of Patchen, said: "I knew that my horse could beat him any part of it from one hundred yards to a mile. Had the race today been on the Terre Haute track with no wind, the first heat would have been in less than 2:00."

DRAWING THE LINE.

Chicage Horse-gamblers Turned the Laugh on Policemen.

(BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TIMES.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.— (Special Dispatch.) Pool-selling is prohibited in Illinois, but people can sit in the State of Indiana and bet on races as put up on the board in Illinois. A large frame building has been erected on the line between this county and Lake county, Indiana, in South Chicago, thirty-four feet of which are in this State and rix feet in Indiana.

Police Captain Baird of the South Chicago.

Police Captain Baird of the South Chicago station paid the establishment a visit today with a patrol-wagon load of policemen, but returned to South Chicago with the jeering laugh of horsegamblers ringing in his ears. There was no stampede when the blue wagon was seen coming down the road. The crowd of "settlers" showed some uneasiness and a disposition to scamper and break across the State line, but they were quieted with an assuring speech by Ed Hughes, the manager.

there was scarcely a murmur when the police captain entered the door which opens on Indiana. One man could have placed the crowd under arrest, but Capt. Baird made no move in that direction. He looked over the premises, and convinced himself that he was in a regularly-equipped pool-vending es-tablishment. Hughes walked out from behind the partition that separates the players from the employes, and received him deferentially.

"Can I do anything for you, capain?" he asked.
"You can close this place up, and the sooner you do it the better it will be for you," returned the officer, curtly. "I don't know about that," said lughes. 'The State line runs between Hughes. 'The State line runs between your feet and mine as we stand here, and you will notice that we are not taking any bets on your side of the boundary. The blackboards along that wall are in Illinois, but we assume that there is no law in Illinois against the posting of the names of horses and the odds that are laid against them in another State. "TOMMY" CONNEFE'S SPRINT. Three-quarter-mile Race in World's Record Time.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.) NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Champion "Tommy" Conneff demonstrated at Travers Island the fact that he is the peer of any amateur short-distance runner in the country by defeating Kil-patrick, Orton, Carter and Remington in a three-quarter-mile race, in world's record time. The occasion was the first of a series of races between the candidates for positions on the team which will represent the New York Athletic Club in the international games with the London Athletic Club at Manhattan Conneff's performance was the feature of the games. He was in superb condition. He, G. W. Orton, the intercollegiate champion; C. H. Klipatrick, half-mile champion, and A. M. Remington, started from the scratch, while E. E. Carter had eighty yards handicap. Carter held his handicap for three laps, when the scratch men caught him. Conneff, who was in front, made his effort after Carter was passed, gradually drew away from his field and, on reaching the homestretch, was ten yards in advance. There he made a grand sprint and finished strong in 3:024-5, breaking the world's record for the distance by 41-5 seconds. Kilpatrick was second, Orton and Remington making a dead heat for third place.

The London Times Prefers That Cuba Should Not Annex to the United States—Important Ex-pedition on Foot:

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.) CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—A special dispatch from Key West, Fla., says that reliable advices from Cuba indicate that the Spaniards in the effort to suppress the rebellion, are perpetrating atrocities as horrible as those attributed to the Kurds in Armenia. A few days ago Capt. Garrido, a Spaniard op-erating with a company of 200 men in the province of Santiago de Cuba, dis-covered a hospital where nearly one hundred wounded insurgents had taken refuge. Garrido ordered the helpless men put to death in the most cruel men put to death in the most cruel men put to death in the most cruel manner.

He refused to allow them to be shot, but made his soldiers chop up the victims with swords. The wounded insurgents were literally dismembered by the Spanish butchers. This atrocious act, together with the execution of Capt. Domingo Magica at Matansas on July 20, has greatly inflamed the people against the Spaniards, and many prominent Cubans heretofore loyal to Spain are now joining the insurgents.

The insurgent leaders, it is said, have resolved to retailate for these butcheries and will put to death all Spanish prisoners, and order that no prisoners be taken hereafter.

Insurgents think the execution of Magica indicates that Spain is resolved on a "no quarter" campaign. Magica was captured about three miles north of Jovellanos, and was shot as a traitor to Spain. He was about 25 years of age, and came of one of the best families in Matansas. A private dispatch received here states that Magica died like a hero, shouting "Viva Cuba libre," as the Spanish soldiers fired.

The insurgents are now in possession of that part of Cuba lying between Colon and Cape Maysi.

Martinez Campos apparently realizes the hopelessness of the situation, for in an interview with Gen. Arderius, his brother-in-law, he stated that he feared Cuba was lost. Campos said he did not have the money necessary to carry

The town of Santa Espiritu is completely deserted. Every able-bodied man has left and joined the insurgents under Roloff and Sanchez. Business throughout the city of Havana is stagnant. There is but little tobacco in the market and the prices charged are exorbitant.

"Headquarters were opened in this city this afternoon looking toward the success of an expedition already partially organized in behalf of the freedom of Cuba. The nucleus of the expedition consists of one hundred pickedmen who are ready to go at any time. The method of procedure is secret, but the leaders, all of whom are prominent, say there exists no doubt about the transfer of the men to the island.

"Orville Shelby, son of 'Fighting' General Jo Shelby, is at the head of the movement. He and a few of his closest friends, it is learned, held a meeting last night, lasting until 1:30 o'clock this morning, at which plans for carrying out the expedition were suggested and earnestly discussed. The followingnamed gentlemen are said to have participated in the conference: Ex-Prosecuting Attorney Mastin, B. B. Crosby, of Butler, Mo., son of Rear-Admiral Crosby of the United States Navy; J. R. Lincoln, distantly related to the martyred President; C. Breckinridge of Palmyra, Mo., related to the distinguished Confederate general of that name; Joseph Brooks, John Warner, William Showers and others.

"Yes, sir; I am going to Cuba and the expedition is already partly organized."

"There are a hundred men in this city and vicinity now ready to go when the signal is given. Nearly all are young and single men and are willing to make a fight for the great prizes and opportunities that will go to Cuba's defenders when her independence is assured. The time to strike is not far off."

"The failure of Campos to suppress the rebellion has caused bitter disappointment in Madrid. We sympathize heartily with Spain's patriotic determination to hold Cuba, at any sacrifice, and we admire her energy, however misdirected, in resisting projects for further disintegration and plots concocted in foreign countries to foment rebellion among her subjects. At the same time, it is suicidal folly for a nation obstinately to refuse to look facts in the face. Englishmen have no desire to see Cuba separated from Spain. The movement for annexation to America is opposed by most intelligent and independent Americans of all parties, and for obvious political reasons. Annexation to America would be regarded with little favor by Brissh statesmen.

"We should be well pleased if Spain were able to arrive at a practical settlement with her rebellious subjects; but that demands a greater quantity of statesmanship than has been displayed, and if Gen. Campos is to gain a viotory he must show greater energy and ingenuity than he has shown. Gen. Campos only opened his eyes after the fight at Bayamo on July 12 to the fact that the insurgents were armed, disciplined and provided with ammunition. Without the havoc which yellow fever and dysentery have played, the constant and aimless marching and countermarching of the last three months would itself have sufficed to invalid men by the wholesale without help from epidemic disease. A remarkable characteristic in the spread of the rebellion is the higher stread to treat with the rebels and has failed; he tried to suppress them and Armed with this text, Justice J. Cat-Armed with this text, Justice 3. Cat-lin aroused the prayer meeting at the Grace Methodist Episcopal Church in Marion by warning that this applied to the prevailing fashion of big sleeves. "What are the enormous puffs that wo-men wear but pillows? And what can Catlin went on to say that upon entering a car not long ago he was shocked to see what large sleeves women wore, thereby taking up the space that belonged to other passengers, and then he quoted the Bible verse, much to the dismay of the women present, who had smiled incredulously when he announced that he had sortiptural authority for his condemnation of the fashion. "If those women whom I saw in the street car had read their Bibles," he concluded, "they would not be seen in public places in such attire."

The women members had a lively discussion of the subject after the meeting and those who adhered to the fashion agreed that Brother Catlin had no business to bring up such a matter in such a place.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TIMES.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—The trial of Theodore Durrant was resumed today, after a delay of nearly a week, caused by the iliness of Judge Murphy. The prosecution accepted the delay as an opportunity to take up the thread of several minor stories dropped by the demand to pursue more vitally-important clews.

portant clews.

Absolutely nothing has been left undone to make the evidence against the accused conclusive. Charles L. Hedemark and his wife were visited again by the prosecutors, and repeated the remarkable story they related soon after Durrant's arrest. This story, so little thought of at the time, has gained significant interest in the last few days, particularly in relation to few days, particularly in relation to an important statement made by the police. Capt. Lees and his associates have said that they will show, beyond the power of contradiction, the move-ments of Durrant during every hour of the day on which Blanche Lamond disappeared.

It is believed that they have a wit ness who saw Durrant near the church between 6 and 7 o'clock on the even-ing of April 3. The dramatic story told by Hedemark and his wife is that they by Hedemark and his wife is that they saw a man moving from place to place. As the darkness of night deepened they saw him in the galleries of the deserted place, guided in his terrible work by the light of a candle. At first the moving light behind the great church window made them think the church was on fire, but closer watching quieted their fears, and they concluded that some one was repairing the sanctuary. They had no suspicion that they were watching the last grewsome details of a horrible crime.

The man whose shadow they saw was hiding the deadly record of his crime. He was busy among the rafters of the steeple, gazing now and again down upon the body of the girl whose life he had taken. Subsequent events gave an intense interest to the part which Hedeman upon the body of the girl whose life he had taken. Subsequent events gave an intense interest to the part which Hedemark and his wife played. That is one reason why they have again told their story to the prosecution. Every detail was repeated.

It was shortly before 7 o'clock that Mrs. Hedemark called her husband's attention to the light in the church. She is able now to recall the incident for several reasons. April 3 was her sister's birthday, and Mrs. Hedemark had paid the former a visit on that day. She had returned to her home somewhat late and was sitting with her husband in the dining-room when her attention was drawn to Emanuel Church. Between their home and the Bartlettstreet church there is no obstruction. Mrs. Hedemark saw the moving light in the church at dusk. She thought it strange, and, watching it for a moment, called her husband to the window.

Together they traced the shadows on ment, called her husband to the window.

Together they traced the shadows on the church windows. The man was in the gallery of the church. Now and again he would stoop and the light would flicker. He moved slowly from that part of the gallery into which the door from the main auditorium opens toward the door to the belfry. When he had slowly made the journey ending at the foot of the tower the light suddenly disappeared. Mrs. Hedemark waited for a few moments and then left her station at the window. She and her husband had been watching the shadow of a murderer, but thought they were looking at the reflection of some workman in the silent church.

Whether or not Hedemark or his wife will be summoned by the prosecution remains to be seen. While their testimony possesses a singularly dramatic interest, it tells nothing of the identity of the murderer. Whatever other witnesses might tell, Hedemark and his wife could say nothing on that score. They did not even see the light in the belfry.

THE NINTH JUROR. SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—Warren Dutton, a retired merchant, was secured as the ninth juror at this morning's session of the Superior Court in the trial of Theodore Durrant for the murder of Blanche Lamont. Twentytwo other veniremen were challenged for cause and excused. Returns had been made today on 125 new veniremen. The number of responses was unusually large, and the opposing counsel have great hopes of securing three more jurors from the number.

Three Women Find Durrant Incapable of Rape or Murder.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—(Special Dispatch.) Among the visitors to Theo-dore Durrant one day this week were three ladies who were introduced by the accused medical student's mother. They were Mrs. G. E. Banks of Stockton, Miss F. E. Burnett of Los Angeles and Mrs. A. Davidson of Boston, who went to the jail for the sole purpose of study-ing him. They claim to be students of human nature. They believe that when they turn their eagle eyes on a man they can read his very soul. After a careful study of all his points their ver-dict was "Innocent; innocent as an andict was "Innocent; innocent as an angel."

Durrant was rather surprised when the delegation arrived, as he is not accustomed to so many lady callers all at once. He was tired when they left, and yet relieved. In speaking of the visit to th jall, Mrs. Davidson, the spokeswoman of th party, said:

"We did not go to the jall as most people go to see a prisoner. With us it was to study for ourselves a young man charged with such revolting crimes. Instead of being a devil, we found him an inoffensive, mild person, witerly incapable of the crimes of which he is charged. There is nothing in the facial expression, poise of the head or physique of the man to indicate an evil character. That young man is innocent, and no matter what evidence they unearth or what the verdict of the jury may be, I shall always believe him so. It is a sin to confine him—a dows:jint sin."

Miss. Burnett claims to represent a left angeles, newspaper, but she would into any what sane; and

The plaintiff alleges that the defendants, controlling a majority of the stock of the Consolidated California and Virginia, entered into a contract with the Comstock Mill and Mining Company in which they were also interested, to mill ore at $7 per ton. The plaintiff avers that, by reason of the contract, which is alleged to have been fraudulent, the stockholders in the Consolidated Virginia were overcharged to the amount of $1,829,000.

I will also take the responsibility of sending it to the Congress for ratification." It is said that President Baptista has secured enough votes in the Senate to sustain his action. But that he fears some of the Deputies are not to be trusted.

The New York Herald's correspondent in Sucre, Bolivia, telegraphs that, in view of possible opposition to the treaty arranged to settle the boundary dispute between Bolivia and Chile, the Chilean Minister has been ordered to change certain clauses. As the treaty now stands, Chile cedes to Bolivia a port in the northern part of the province of Tarapaca and at the same time guarantees that, in the event of the final transmission of Tacua Arica, and specific properties of the polylic and will be returned to her by Bolivian customs receipts. It will finally be paid to the government of Peru. Bolivia insists that Chile shall secure her position at Tacua Arica and against aggression on the part of the public.

Sir John Franklin.

(Blackwood's Magazine:) It was in Warwickshire that I made the acquaint-ance of Sir John Franklin, while I was still quite a child. The stout, goodhumored gentleman, whose image appears before me as I write his name, is ssociated in my mind with an event in which he took the keenest interest-a total eclipse of the sun; but the amuse ment afforded by a rather absurd incident connected with it I am afraid engrossed my childish mind more than all the scientific explanations of the phenomenon which Sir John Franklin was so well qualified to give.

In those primitive days it was held

In those primitive days it was held that the best mode of witnessing the obscuration of the sun was to watch it through pieces of smoked glass, with which we were all duly provided when we salled forth to an open piece of ground where nothing impeded the view. The result was that in the course of a few minutes the noses of every one present were severely blackened—unconsciously to themselves—and the appearance of the whole scientific party was irresistably comic.

Sir John Franklin appeared then so full of life and energy and high spirits that it was difficult to think of him afterward as the worn-out suffering hero of that last fatal voyage, which held the country in suspense as to his fate during a period cruelly long and trying to his wife and to all who had relations among, his companions in the ice-bound vessels. One of my cousins was of the number and I well remember the sensation in his home when some of the relics of the disastrous expedition, afterwards brought back, were identified as having belonged to him.

linquent taxes, the deed therfor shall be made to the State within one year after this act takes effect, provided, five years shall have lapsed after the date of such sale."

The provisions of the section quoted are mandatory, and as ministerial officers, sworm to uphold the law, the tax collector and Controller have no alternative but to obey its mandate.

NAPOLEON AND WASHINGTON.

How America's First President Was Honored at the Tuileries.

Simultaneously with these events the most careful preparation was made for a step which might redound to Bonaparte's credit if properly taken, but could easily be detailed to the could be appeared to the could be detailed to th (Prof. Sloane's "Life of Napoleon" in the August Century:) Simultaneously with these events the most careful preparation was made for a step which might redound to Bonaparte's credit if properly taken, but could easily be detrimental to the complete success of his schemes. Under the new constitution every department of government had an assigned dwelling-place. That of the consuls was to be the Tuileries. How could an absolute dictator install his penates in the sometime home of absolute royalty without inspiring general distrust? The first step was to rechristen the pile as "the palace of the christen the pile as "the palace of the government," the next to consecrate it to glory. From far and near the stat ues of the great were gathered to adorn its halls. The choice of these displayed its halls. The choice of the generals in significant confusion the generals and statesmen of all times in all places. Prederick: Cato and statesmen of all times in all places. Alexander, Caesar, Frederick; Cato, Cicero, Brutus; Mirabeau, Marceau and Joubert, and many others of lesser note, were assembled in effigy. But highest of all was set the image of Washington, the news of whose death had just reached Europe. His example was to be held up as the real inspiration of the new ruler. In order both to arouse the imagination of the people and to convince their understanding, the army was put into mourning for the great American, and a festival was instituted in his honor. To honor the typical and ideal republican of the age was a conspicuously effective idea, since it accorded thoroughly with the approved traditions of the revolution.

effective idea, since it accorded thoroughly with the approved traditions of the revolution.

The celebration was set for February 9, 1800, and proved a great success. It had already been decided to reawaken public enthusiasm by instituting great military ceremonies to accompany the final deposit of the captured standards from Aboukir in the hospital of the Invalides. These and the Washington festival were interwoven with consumate art, and, while the First Consul's victories were recalled in the imposing parade, the simple and impressive words of an able orator, M. de Fontanes, reminded the nation that the immortal Washington had shown as a general more strength than brilliancy, and had awakened little enthusiasm, but great confidence; that he was one of the men inspired to rule who appear from time to time in the world; that he was neither partisan nor demagogue, and that when peace had once been signed he had laid down his arms to become the wisest of constructive legislators. "Yes, Washingnor demagogue, and that when peace had once been signed he had laid down his arms to become the wisest of constructive legislators. "Yes, Washington; thy counsels shall be heard—thou warrior, legislator, administrator! He who in his youth surpassed thee in battle, like thee shall close with conquering hands the wounds of his country." Minds less quick than those of the Parisians would have discovered the moral of the address even without the peroration. When the official journal next day published the glowing words and described the brilliant ceremony, the coming monarch was already lodged under the roof of the Bourbons. Since at Leoben Bonaparte had made the liberation of Lafayette and his family an indispensable condition of the treaty, it might have been expected that his name, so long used elsewhere in a natural juxtaposition, on such an occasion would be linked with that of Washington, but the honors of that day were to be shared with the dead foreigner, not with the living Frenchman.

He was indicted for making faise entries in the bank's books. Lusk failed to appear, being in Mexico. His bond was declared for feited.

A Guthrie (Okka.) dispatch says that an apparent shortage of $3500 in the accounts of County Treasurer Laverty has been found and that officer has been ordered to appear before the county commissioners and explain the discrepancy. It is charged that Laverty, in the sale of $35,800 worth of county bonds, accounts for but $31,300 of the money.

C. R. Smith of Gainesville, Tex., a stockman of considerable means, was arrested at Kansas City Wednesday night on a warrant sworn out by the Armour Banking Company of that city. The banking company of that city. The banking company brought suit against Smith to recover $14,000 which it is alleged was advanced to him several years ago, but as Smith has not been in the State since then the papers could not be served.

A Winona (Minn.) dispatch says that the remains of Ah Fune, a Mongolian who died in 1876, were disinterred Wednesday evening at the written request of his relatives on the street of the matter of the matte from morning till night singing the stories of "oppressed" labor and the cruelty of the rich, know this as well as the man who dwells in peace under his own humble vine and fig tree, acquired by years of patient toll, practical economy.

But "Live while you can" was their motto, with no thought of the coming "wet day," and these are some of the men who are now in the wet. The rain came and caught them without shelter, as it surely will every one who thus lives, on the other hand there are not a few who took advantage of the opportunity presented and these are they who are now living in peace and comfort and are ready for the wet day. Boys and Girls and Fruit.

Boys and Girls and Fruit.

(Willows Journal:) As for the boys and girls in the fruit-growing neighborhoods, their trouble is that they are not taught to work. Few Westernborn people have ever been taught to work persistently and steadily all day long, year in and year out. They can work by fits and spurts, work killing hard for a week or two and lay up for repairs for a month, but to work reasonably and faithfully ten hours a day and all the days in the season—no one can do that who has not been trained to do it, and, for the most part, young people outside of factory districts are not trained to habits of persistent industry. But employers should be patient with these young people. They are the stuff our nation is to be made of, and who ever loves his country and honors his flag will do his utmost to help our boys and girls to be useful men and women.

As time passes and our fruit districts settle up, there will grow up a quantity of white home labor skilled in handling fruit, and the labor question will then settle itself; but we regard it more than probable that the big fruit farms will have to be divided up into small ones, because of the labor problem—and the sooner it happens the better. Big fruit farms are better than no fruit farms, but small fruit farms are the best.

Miss Florence Rinne Again Deprived of Her Liberty. It has transpired that the girl who was slightly injured in a runaway ac-cident on Los Angeles street Wednesday evening, and who gave the name of Lydia Thompson, was in reality Miss Florence Rinne, the fourteen-yearold chorus girl who aspires to be an actress contrary to her mother's wishes. It appears that Miss Rinne was again out on a lark, when the accident hap-pened. She was released from the City Jail last Monday, because her mother Jall last Monday, because her mother was willing to give her one more trial before taking steps to have her sent to the reform school. In view of Wednes' day's incident, however, she reluctantly came to the conclusion that reform school was the only place for her daughter. Humane Officer Hutchins accordingly took Florence into custody yesterday afternoon, and it is probable that the incorrigible girl will be sent to Whittier.

A BRACE OF DUCKS. Restored to Their Rightful Owner

by the Court. Eugene Barry, a grocer on East Ninth street, invoked the machinery of the courts to recover for him two ducks, "one white and one mixed color," of the "one white and one mixed color," of the value of $1, which he alleged were stolen from him by two bad boys, John Doe and Richard Roe, and sold by them to Mead, Wright & Co's butcher at Main and Fifteenth streets, Detective F. H. Steele, a sleuth of wide renown, was detailed to recover the stolen birds. Backed by the majesty of the law and armed with a search warrant, the detective sallied forth and soon found the ducks, the white one and that of mixed color, and restored them to their lawful owner. The butcher did not surrender the birds willingly, as he had purchased them in good faith, and he would like to get his money back. The two bad boys, John Doe and Richard Roe, have not yet been arrested, as there is some doubt as to their lentity.

OFFICE OF THE TIMES, Los Angeles, Aug. 22, 1895. BANK CLEARANCES. The bank

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

clearances for today, as reported to The Times by the Los Angeles Clear-ing-house, are: Exchanges, $141,222.76; balances, $16,560.90.

BOND ELECTIONS, ETC. On August 29 the stockholders of the Etiwanda Water Company will vote on a proposition to issue $50,000 in bonds of the company.

On September 3 an election will be held in Santa Monica, Los Angeles county, on the issuance of $40,000 semi-annual 5 per cent. sewer-bonds of $1000 each, to run for a period of forty years.

September 7 Liano school district,
Los Angeles county, will vote on the Los Angeles county, will vote on the issuance of $1200 7 per cent. bonds. September 21 the stockholders of the Los Cerritos Sugar Company will meet to decide on a proposition to issue $450,000 in bonds for the erection of a sugar factory.

$450,000 in bonds for the erection of a sugar factory.

On August 26 sealed bids will be opened at Phoenix, Ariz., for Arizona Territory funding, 20-50-year 5's, semi-annual, $365,000 of the denomination of $1000 each.

The school-bond election lately held in Recluse school district, San Diego county, has been declared invalid.

Chula Vista school district, in San Diego county, is going to call an election to vote on $1850 school bonds.

The Temescal Water Company is going to issue bonds to the amount of $100,000.

For the Lakeview school district

fig. 100,000.

For the Lakeview school district bonds the bids were as follows: D. Cleveland, for the entire issue at par, a premium of seven-eighths of 1 per cent. and accrued interest; Isabel Lisco, 3 per cent. premium for $2000.

East Riverside school district has voted the issuance of $2000 refunding bonds.

Messrs. de Van & Co. of Los Angeles purchased Marysville municipal-improvement bonds, 1-10, 5's, to the amount of $40,000 at par.

RAISIN SHIPMENTS. Several carloads of Southern California old-crop raisins have been shipped east during raisins have been shipped east during the past week. Shipments of a few more carloads will probably be made within the next few days. This will about clean up the old raisin crop of Southern California. The J. K. Armsby Co., referring to these shipments, said today to a Times reporter: "Just now we can handle old raisins at a fairly reasonable figure, but shippers must not expect to get the same price for old raisins that they would for new crop. Many of our growers seem to forget that raisins are not like wines, they do not improve with age."

SUGAR IMPORTS. The Los Angeles Investor gives the following as the imports of sugar into San Francisco by sea for July last: "Hawaiian Islands, 23,188,461 pounds; China, 2,919,353 pounds; Mexico, 682,048 pounds; England, 67,200 pounds; total quantity, 26,857,062 pounds. The total value of all importations of sugar in San Francisco for the first seven months of 1895 amounted to $6,128,512."

GENERAL BUSINESS TOPICS. IRON AND METAL TRADES. A dispatch tonight to The Times from New York says: "The Iron Age, speaking of the iron and metal trades, says it looks as though the enormous wire industry of this country will soon be entirely controlled by a series of associations (closely efficiency with the country with the country will soon to the country will soon be entirely controlled by a series of associations. tions closely affiliated with one an-

"So far as raw material is concerne the Central West is again on the upward move. There have been heavy sales of Bessemer pig for delivery during the remainder of the year and for the first quarter of next year. The leading Chicago interest and two large Ohio steel works have been the most conspicuous buyers.

steel works have been the most conspleuous buyers.

"Steel billets are firm, and displayed an upward tendency. Chicago records sales of 30,000 tons of steel rails this week, and it is understood that an 18,000 lot is under negotiation. Some cororders are coming up in the same territory, and a pretty large tonnage of bars is being placed. In the East the trade is less inclined to operate with cyclone vigor. In fact it may be justly said that there is a distinct lull, which some welcome as affording a needed breathing spell, while others use it as breathing spell, while others use it as a pretext for gloomy forebodings. The great majority, however, are inclined to believe in a further advance. Copper is very firm. This week the first lot of American copper resold on European account, has arrived from Liverpool."

THE STREET RAILWAYS. Referring to the sale, a few days ago, of the Los Angeles Consolidated Electric railways, the Investor (Los Angeles) says "The street-railway system of Los Angeles has received a further impetus from the sale made the other day by the trustees of the bondholders of the Consolidated Electric Railway Company. Under this sale the syndicate of bondholders, representing the entire $3.000.000 of bonded indebtedness, with the exception of about $85,000, has acquired possession, under the provisions of the trust deed, of the property belonging to the old corporation, and comprising the cable and electric systems, power-houses and rolling-stock, together with the franchises under which almost the entire street-car system of the city is now operated by the corporation known as the Los Angeles Railway Company. The property was bought in for $1,500.000, which is really a nominal amount, as it represents merely the sum paid by the bondholders to themselves for the acquisition of a property in which they have already invested $3,000.000, the only difference being that the few bondholders who remained on the outside will be entitled to share pro rata in the sum paid as purchase money at the sale.

"The owners of the road are now in a "The street-railway system of Lor in the sum paid as purchase money at the sale.

"The owners of the road are now in a position to carry out the contemplated betterments and improvements, which will involve the expenditure of, perhaps, $500,000. It is intended in the first place to electrize the whole system, which will involve doing away with the cable lines and the consequent disuse of the three cable power-houses in the erection of which, with their expensive plants, so much money was invested by the Cable Railway Company, which was the ploneer of quick transportation in this city."

The new company will, it is said, entarge its electric plant by the addition of two engines of 1000 horse-powereach, and of two vertical engines intended to supply power to outside customers. Fifty new cars have been contracted for to replace the present cable cars. The horse lines will be electrized. It is also affirmed that the disused tracks will again be operated, the company having no intention of forfeiting any of the franchises which it holds. Among these revived lines will be the one running out Ninth street and along Pearl and Sixth streets.

RENEWED BUSINESS ACTIVITY.
The Los Angeles Trade Review in its issue tomorrow will say: "Frade is showing unmistakable signs of renewed activity. Everything points in the direction of an era of unprecedented activity during the latter part of September and October. Orders usual, and they promise to be considerably larger than for years past."

INCORPORATIONS. Articles of in-INCORPORATIONS. Articles of incorporation were yesterday filed with the County Clerk by the Southern California Land and Improvement Company of Los Angeles, a corporation formed for the purpose of dealing in real estate and personal property and in water and water rights.

The capital stock is $500,000, divided into 5000 shares, of which amount $50,000 is actually subscribed, the shares being owned by the five directors in the following proportions: Charles R. Rockwood, $15,000; David L. Russell, 18,000; David O. Anderson, $2500; William T. Gonder, $2500; Charles N. Perry, $15,000.

WEATHER - CROP BULLETIN.
George E. Franklin, observer of the Weather Bureau in Los Angeles, has sent The Times a copy of his report for the week ended August 19, and which is as follows:
Clear, somewhat warmer days prevailed during the past week in the coast districts, but fogs at night or in the morning were of frequent occurrence; in the interior districts the weather continued clear and warm.
The weather conditions were generally favorable for all crops; fruits are ripening fast and drying is progressing finely; a large crop of prunes of good quality is being cured; the bean crop promises a fine yield, except in some localities, where it has been injured by ladybugs. Grapes and walnuts are doing well.

San Luis Obisno—The weather condinnely; a large crop of prunes of good quality is being cured; the bean crop promises a fine yield, except in .some localities, where it has been injured by ladybugs. Grapes and walnuts are doing well.

San Luis Obispo.—The weather conditions were favorable for all crops. The highest temperature was 81 deg.; lowest 52 deg. Musick: Fruit is ripening fast, the weather being exceptionally favorable. The bean crop at Arroyo Grande Valley promises a splendid yield; near San Luis Obispo the beans have been ruined in places by ladybugs.

Los Angeles county—Los Angeles city: Slightly warmer, clear days prevailed, but the nights and mornings were frequently foggy. Highest temperature, 88 deg.; lowest, 55 deg. La Canada: The highest temperature during the week was 88 deg., and the lowest was 55 deg.; sunshine, 100 per cent. Colegrove: The weather was clear and warm, but not hot, as we had fresh ocean breezes every day. All growing plants are in a healthy condition and show no need of water, though it is four months since rain has fallen. Pasadena: Weather about normal, with occasional fogs at night. Fruit-drying continues; prunes are a big crop; vegetables plentiful and unusually fine. Highest temperature, 22 deg.; lowest, 54 deg. Duarte: The weather of the past week has been favorable for all crops. Prune-drying is in full blast and the quality of the fruit is good. Late peaches are ripening. Highest temperature, 94 deg.; lowest, 57 deg. Pomona: The weather vas clear, with occasional fogs in the morning, fine weather for drying prunes and peaches. The peach and prune crops are heavy, but the size of peaches is less than last year, the quality of both is good. Orange county—Santa Ana: Prune-drying is progressing rapidly; the weather could not be made better for drying fruits. The English walnut crop will be better than last season's and one-quarter larger. The second crop of blackberries is coming in and will last for several weeks. Anaheim: The mornings were fogsy and the days comparatively warm; nights cool. Prune and p

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22, 1895.

Seed potatoes are weaker. Other grades hold well to quotations. There has been little change in poultry for several weeks. Eggs are well sustained. Butter is a trifle weaker. The leading futures ranged as follows: (The following quotations are for average grades of the products mentioned. For an extra choice article a somewhat better price than the highest quoted can usually be obtained, while for a product of decidedly interior quality the seller will probably have to accept less than the lowest published quotation.)

Shares and Money

Shares and Money.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—The market was generally strong today. At the opening there was a renewal of yesterday's selling in the international specialties, principally of St. Paul, but this stock, as well as the other Grangers and the entire railway list, was well supported by the home traders and the only material declines were in the Industrial group, Sugar being the chief sufferer, with a break of 1½ per cent. Buying of the Grangers soon checked the factine and the business was gradually distributed, bringing about an advancing tendency, which gained force as the day avanced and which reached its height before delivery hour. The continued ease of the sterling exchange market, the absence of bills drawn against prospective gold shipmonts and the fact that there were no engagements of the yellow metal for shipment to Europe by Saturday's steamer were the factors in the appreciation of the share values. Among the principal gains were Lake Erie and Western preferred, 2% per cent.; Sugar, 3%, and Colorado Fuel 1 per cent. The general market closed strong and in the main at advances on yesterday's final figures. Bonds were active and firm. The sales aggregated $1,578,000.

London Financial Market.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—The Evening Post's London cablegram says that the stock markets were idle, but firmer. American securities were irregular. Northern Pacific bonds were flat and St. Paul was strong on crop prospects. Prices closed at the best, but with no dealings here. Kaffirs are monopolizing attention. The decline in exchange had a good effect, but the heavy trade balance against the United States is urged by bears in their favor. It is this phase of the question which carries weight, too, in the money market.

Breton Superstition.

(Temple Bar:) Although nominally converted to Christianity in the same century as the Irish, the Sein Islanders continued many of the practices of Druidism down to quite modern times. In the seventeenth century, when Pere Maunoir undertook their reconversion, the paganism of the old Celtic world was still strong upon this rock. It was after his mission that the church was built. Even now there is a current of Druidism that runs side by side or mingles with the fervent Christianity of the people. They imagine that they hear the dead speaking to them by the voices of the waves, and the fancied messages that they thus receive from disembodied spirits tinge their interpretation of the doctrine of the communion of souls sanctioned by their missionaries with a superstitious mysticism that is only tolerated by the Roman Catholic clergy, because any violent attempt to correct it might do more harm than good.

This habit of living with the dead and looking for signs from them is to be especially observed among the women, who fall so under the sway of it that most of the time that many of them spend in prayer is in the cemetery, not in the church. The men attack great importance to birds as omens of weather. There is a beautiful sea bird with black and white plumage and an orange-colored beak, shaped much like a parrot's, which in their belief always brings fine weather. The notion is probably warranted by the bird's habits, but the name which they give it, Douelc, "little God," is a distant legacy of paganism.

Water as an Electric Conductor.

Water as an Electric Conductor.

(New York Times:) Mr. Edison's inventive faculty often runs in fanciful grooves. Some time ago he evolved an elaborate scheme for the electrical defense of a fort. He contended that half the ordinary complement of guns could be dispensed with, and in their stead he would install a powerful dynamo. Current from this machine would be conducted by wires to the nozzle of hoses, carrying a heavy stream of water under high pressure. These would be placed on the ramparts, and as the enemy approached the jet would be turned on. As water is a good conductor, the stream would be heavily charged with electricity of fatal power and every man within its radius would be killed. An Auburn ex-Alderman has just escaped what might have been unpleasant consequences from seeking to experiment in the same field of electrical conduction. He was wetting down his lawn with the garden hose when he became suddenly possessed with a desire to "shoot" at the trolley wire, and he would have done it but for the timely arrival of the lineman, who advised him not to. He has since been consulting electrical authorities on the subject, and, although there is no certainty that a person who throws water on an electrical trolley wire will get a shock, the Alderman has gome to the conclusion that he will not try it.

Scientific Fruit Growing (Farm News.) Prof. Minett is of the opinion that the science of fruit culture is only beginning to be understood, and that much improvement will be possible as soon as we know more about the subject. When orchards were set on virgin soil filled with plant food, and all sorts of varieties were set in the same orchard, it was possible by the cross fertilization that occurred to have crops every year. Now in these days of specialties, one man will set a great orchard with one variety and cross fertilization being lacking, the crops fall off in quantity, as well as quality. We do not yet understand all about the influence the original stock may have on the imported graft set in it, and there is some reason to think that the fruit may vary with the different stock used.

It has been only twelve years since we began to understand the effects of the various fungus diseases and blights which destroy fruits, trees and vines, and less time than that since we began to have access to remedies that were effective.

It has only very recently been discovered that the treatment that is good for apple or peach trees, and we have much to learn in this direction. A pear tree requires twice as much potash and phosphoric acid, as an apple tree, and the treatment that is correct for the apple tree, would not be for the pear, and to fertilize an apple tree as much as is necessary for a pear tree would be wast-(Farm News:) Prof. Minett is of the

It pays for Los Angeles to cultivate the acquaintance of Central Arizona, where people have money and are willing to spend it for personal comfort.

OUR STREETS.

A gentleman who has spent most of time during the past three years in Los Angeles, but who is now in Buffalo, N. Y., writes to The Times from that city, making some comparisons unfavorable to Los Angeles as regards the cleanliness and general dition of the streets in the two cities, respectively. The streets of Buffalo are mostly of asphalt, and he scribes them as being "as clean and smooth as a house-floor, even if that floor be in a marble palace." The corident recognizes the great attraction of our superb climate, and thinks that Los Angeles would draw many more visitors and permanent residents from the East if more care and money were expended in the improvement of our streets and in keeping them clean after they are improved.

It must be confessed that there is force in the correspondent's suggestions. While it is, of course, impos sible to do at once everything that needs to be done in the way of street mprovement, it would be possible for Los Angeles to do much more than is done each year. We have some very good graveled roads, and more bad ones. The roads built latterly are better than those built a few years ago, but there is still much room for imement. Road-building is a science which not every tyro can master at a single lesson. The beauty, healthfulness, attractiveness and general prosperity of a city depend more upon the manner in which its streets are improved and cared for than is generally supposed. There needs to be a thorough awakening in this city on the subject of better highways, and the awakening should be followed prompt action.

Property-owners on unimproved treets who delay to take steps for the improvement of the same, are surely not alive to their own interests. Those who oppose such improvements are standing in their own light and are opposing what is for their own pecuniary enefit. In almost all cases, if not in all, the benefit to property from the improvement of the street upon which It abuts will greatly exceed the cost, to owner, of such improvement. Let any person who doubts this take a look over the city and ascertain the prices asked and readily paid for ealty of various grades. He will not he long in discovering that houses and ots situated on graded, graveled or ed and sidewalked streets command much higher selling or rental price n those situated on unimproved

As to the proper care of the streets after they have been improved, there is no room for two opinions. Money judiciously spent in such work is coney well spent. This is true that the street from

AT THE PLAYHOUSES.

LOS ANGELES THEATER,-There was a big house out last night to wel-come again to Los Angeles the popular actor-author, William Gillette, his bright and breezy comedy, "Too Much Johnson," and, as the editor of the Milpitas Gazette would probably have it, "a lovely time was had." Mr. Gillette calls this creation an "attempt have it, "a lovely time was had." Mr. Gillette calls this creation an "attempt to kill time"—well, it does that, and does it to volleys and shrieks of laughter, for it is quite the most cachinnatory thing seen about these parts since they struck oil on the hills.

'As in all of Gillette's comedies and adaptations, there is throughout "Too Much Johnson" a perfect whirlwind of complexities, but in this case they are brought about by the lying of one Augustus Billings (Mr. Gillette.) who proves to the satisfaction of his audience, at least, that he is such a nimble-witted liar that Joe Mulhattan and Ell Perkins are not on the same earth with him. He lies with celerity, neatness, dispatch and all that sort of thing, chasing himself from one lie to another, like a row of scorchers coasting down a slant of forty-five degrees. Oh, yes, indeed, Mr. Billings is a beautiful liar. Never turns a hair nor misses a trick, but natty, cool and debonair, invents any sort of a lie to fit the occasion, and does it with such ready grace that you can't help liking the fellow. As is rare in plays of this class, "Too Much Johnson" contains one bit of pathos that is genuinely effective. It is not lugged in by the class, "Too Much Johnson" contain one bit of pathos that is genuinely & fective. It is not lugged in by the heels, but through the smoke and du of comedy there gleams one patch blue sky of real feeling that is as frei and welcome as the gleam of a str of comedy there gleams one patch of blue sky of real feeling that is as fresh and welcome as the gleam of a star through a rift in a rain cloud at night. This is the little scene between Billings and his wife (Maud Haslam.) in which he speaks of her stepping in front of the real Johnson's pistol the day before to save her rollicking husband from the bullet he richly deserves. It is an extremely neat bit, and played with rare color on the part of both actor and actress.

"Too Much Johnson" is a real jolly lot. It does not fatigue one to keep the run of events, but he may just sit still and enjoy himself, and if a fellow or his girl go to see the play, that is quite sure to be the result. The company sufrounding Mr. Gillette is clever to a degree. Maud Haslam comes back to us to-meet a warm welcome, for she is just as bright and accomplished as ever. Her work as the wife of the boss liar was a delight. Kate Meek, as the conventional mother-in-law, was sufficiently rich in the capacity to sufficiently rich in the capacity to "nag" to prove thoroughly acceptable; indeed, her work was a feature of the performance. Ralph Delmore, as the flery, untamed Cuban planter; with a tendency to cut and shoot, was capital, and all the rest of the people helped make it a merry evening, a night of smiles, and this is who they are—all of them:

Henry Mackintosh Charles Crosby
Joseph Johnson Ralph Delmore
Mons. Leom Dathals Charles J. Bell
Frederick Robert Hickman
Steward Benjamin Hendricks
Sellery Looton Thomas Erison
Messenger Cecil Llone!

There was another feature which added to the pleasure of last night's performance, and that was the returnof Dion Romandy to the leadership of the orchestra. Prof. Romandy is, the most accomplished musician who ever sat in a director's chair in this city, and his restoration to his old post at the Los Angeles is a cause for genuine congratulation. Theaterspoers should be in their seats early in order to thoroughly enjoy this play, as the tale is unfolded by Gillette's first appearance.
Lagards will miss not only a clear understanding of the play, but some of the best bits of acting in the plece.

"Too Much Johnson" goes the remainder of the week with the usual afternoon performance on Saturday.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Another Irrepressible Conflict.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22.—(To the Editor of The Times:) I have just seen the editorial note in Tuesday's Times on the City Ministerial Union's resolution sent to the City Council on Monday. Tou refer to "the delicate insinuation contained in the closing words of the communication, in which the 'sincerity' of the Councilmen is dwelt upon." I did not know before that one word "dwelt" upon a subject. I do not know what is meant by "delicate insinuation," but if it means that any reflection was made upon the sincerity of the Council, this is a mistaken interpretation. The reference is to the resolution passed by the City Council about two months ago, in which it expressly informed the Police Commission that the Council meant what it said when it ordered the rewords. Another Irrepressible Confite in which it expressly informed the Police Commission that the Council meant what it said when it ordered the removal of the houses of ill-fame from Alameda street. So far from doubting that the Council is in earnest in this matter, as it has expressly declared, the Ministerial Union wishes to help maintain the honor and dignity of the Council by preventing the repetition of such an outrageous insult as that given by the late Police Commission, which in an official communication practically threw the lie in the face of the Council, telling it plainly that it did not mean what it said and was not in earnest as it had declared. The action that the Council has taken puts it in such a position that it can protect itself from indignity and prove its sincerity only by its works; that is, by appointing Police Commissioners who will faithfully perform their sworn duty.

The Council has treated the ministers considerately and courteously, and they certainly intend to treat the Council

perform their sworn duty.

The Council has treated the ministers considerately and courteously, and they certainly intend to treat the Council likewise.

The infamous vice on Alameda street had become so open and notorious before the ministers began to protest against it, that it was plain that a policy of silence or non-interference would not relegate the growing evil to obscurity. And at the present stage it ought to be manifest to all good citizens that it is to the interest of the city in every respect to drive this hurtful evil into some more obscure part of the city. This can be done without scattering it. But the sooner it is removed from Alameda street, the better for the fair fame of the city. At present it is impossible to make travelers through the city and tourists who visit Chinatown believe that this is "the most moral city in the country," when they see such a damning vice tolerated in such conspicuous places—which attract more attention and inquiry now than before the "improvements" were made by the late Police Commission. Some people who come here intending to settle will certainly prefer to go to Pasadena or some other place rather than to live in a city where it is very evident that there are so many angels who have not kept their first estate.

NORTHERN PACIFIC RECEIVER-SHIP.

SEATTLE (Wash.) Aug. 22.—The hearing on the application of Brayton Ives, for the removal of the receivers of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, began today before United States Circuit Judge Gilbert and United States District Judge Hanford. The argument was mainly confined to the question of the jurisdiction of Judge Jenkins. So great was the demand for admittance that the hearing was transferred from the Federal Court to the Superior Court room. There were half a dozen or more lawyers on each side of the case. Col. Pettee had, among others, ex-United States Senator Sanders of Montana to assist him, and W. J. Curtis of New York, partner of General Counsel Cromwell, was among counsel for receiver.

General Counsel Cromwell, was among counsel for receiver.

Soon after court convened, the receivers mended their answer to the application for an order to show cause, but did not materially change it. Then Col. Pettee put in an affidavit, signed by the board of New York and secretary of the company, in which he alleged that at the time of the foreclosure bills were filed the company, had no property whatever in Judge Jenkins's district. Harold Preston made the opening argument for the closure bills were filed the company had no property whatever in Judge Jenkins's district. Harold Preston made the opening argument for the company. He said that the receivers were appointed first under the Winston bill. At that time the company had some leased lines in Jenkins's district, but the receivers terminated them, and were ordered by the court to remove the rolling stock to the eastern district of Wisconsin, so that, when the foreclosure bills were, filed later, the company had not leased lines in the district, and rolling-stock which was there should not have been there. The court having directed that it should be removed within thirty days. Evydence in the case, he maintained, showed that there was no property in the district described in the mortgages. Then many authorities were cited to show under what circumstances Jenkins did not have jurisdiction. Preston finished at noon, and this afternoon Assistant General Counsel Bunn is answering him for the receivers. The court will first determine the question of jurisdiction, it will ne necessary for the court to name new receivers. Should it be held that Jenkins had no jurisdiction, it will ne necessary for the court to name new receivers. Should it be held that Jenkins had jurisdiction, the charges against the receivers may be tried here, or may be sent back to Judge Jenkins for investigation.

NEW ARKANSAS ROAD. PINE BLUFF (Ark.,) Aug. 22.—The Pine Bluff and Western Railroad, a new lroad to be built from Pine Bluff to raliroad to be built from Pine Bluff to Shreveport, La., has taken tangible form. A corps of engineers will begin to survey the line tomorrow. Local and Boston capitalists back the enterprise. The Southwestern Construction Company of Kansas City has a contract for building, and work will be pushed rapully.

CONTRACTING FREIGHT AGENTS. CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—A large number of railway contracting freight agents of railway contracting freight agents from all western points will leave here over the Pennsylvania lines Saturday for New York, where the tenth annual meeting of their associations will be held. Several hundred are expected to be in attendance. The Murnay Hill Hotel will be headquarters and the meetings will last throughout the month. Arrangements have been made for wholesale entertainments. Business sessions are to occupy the mornings.

THE SALE OF THE SANTA FE

THE SALE OF THE SANTA FE: TOPEKA (Kan...) Aug. 22.—The date for the sale of the Santa Fe Railroad will be fixed next week in Topeka.

for the sale of the Santa Fe Railroad will be fixed next week in Topeka. Judge H. C. Caldwell will come to Topeka for the purpose of making the decree for the sale. When the schedule of indebtedness of the company has been made it will then be known what is the lowest figure at which the road may be sold. The whole proceeding is simply a matter of form, and the sale will be nothing more, for there will be no other bidders but the Reorganization Committee. It is certain that the sale will not be made before November 1. The sale must be advertised for thirty days, and then there must be an interval of thirty days before the sale.

Receiver Aldage Walker of the Santa Fe has returned from his trip to Albuquerque to contest the separate receivership suits of the Atlantic and Pacific. Said he: "Probably within a fortnight a decree for the sale of the Santa Fe will be asked. There is no apparent reason why the decree should not be granted, and the sale will probably be ordered within sixty or ninety days. A new company will be organized to take the road and operate it. The directors have not been elected, but that can be done at any time. Under the plan of reorganization the recurities on which interest must be paid have been scaled down about 50 per cent. This will put the road in an extremely strong position financially. There is every reason to believe the earnings will be large enough to satisfy all interests. There has been no definite talk that I know of regarding the election of officers. That is a matter for the directors. The physical condition of the road is better than it ever was in its history.

"The Atlantic and Pacific suit was decided in favor of the Santa Fe. Of course, it can bring another action for the appointment of separate receivers, but it is probable it will not. Each present certainty of good earnings. It will not surprise me at all if the earnings of the road-for the next year are the largest in its history. With iron and stone bridges taking the place of wooden and new rails wherever needed, the road is in shape to be operated more economically than ever before."

WANT REDUCED RATES

WANT REDUCED RATES.

FRESNO, Aug. 22.—Resolutions prepared by the Chamber of Commerce of this city were submitted to a mass meeting today, calling for a 33-3 percent reduction in local grain rates to Port Costa. Railroad Commissioner H. M. Larue and W. W. Phillips, Democratic candidate for a railroad commissionership from this county at the last election, were present. The Chamber of Commerce resolutions went through a sort of baptism of oratory, and came out with the 33-3 per cent. reduction on local rates changed to an accordance with the general programme of the Larue resolutions, namely, a general reduction of 15 per cent. on freight rates. A clause charging the Southern Pacific Company with discriminating against Fresno and the San Joaquin Valley in the matter of freight rates was stricken out after a debate in which Mr. Larue took part by request. Mr. Larue said he falled to find evidence of such discrimination on comparing the San Joaquin Valley rates lence of such discrimination on com-paring the San Joaquin Valley rates with those of the Sacramento Valley. On motion the following supplementary On motion the following supplementary resolution was unanimously adopted:

"Resolved, that we earnestly urge the Board of Railroad Commissioners to immediately cause a reduction in freight rates upon all cereals shipped from any point in Fresno county to tide water of at least 15 per cent. of the rate on such freights and urge, as the best means of a speedy arrival at said reduction, that our Railroad Commission adopt and put into effect at the earliest practicable moment the resolutions amending the present schedule introduced in said board by the Hon. H. M. Larue on the 14th day of August, 1895."

DENVER (Colo..) Aug. 22.—The sninual report of the Denver and Rio Grande Railway Company has gone to the printer, and will be ready for forwarding to New York and London by August 31. The report will not be made public before the first week in September, when it will be issued simultaneously in London and Denver.

From Comptroller Little it is learned that the report is one of the most interesting and satisfactory ever issued by the company. The balances show that, after providing for every indebtedness, the company has in the treasury the sum of $528,000, in round numbers, the result of the business transacted during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1895.

The Monterey has attracted, theory

The Monterey has attracted throngs of people to Port Los Angeles. The Southern Pacific carried trainloads of them to the end of the long wharf. There they embarked on tugs and made a 1000 feet journey over the briny deep to the wonderful example of modern naval warfare. Extra trains were put on to carry Santa Monica and Soldlers' Home people to the center of interest. Home people to the center of interest.

Some years ago the Temecula Canyon worth the money it would cost to rebuild it until this summer. The track has been relaid as far north as Fallbrook, a distance of seven miles. The station there was opened Monday. Yesterday the Fallbrook people, aided by a big excursion from San Diego, celebrated the joyful event.

brated the joyful event.

The Los Angeles Railway Company, the successor of the Consolidated Electric Railway Company, intends to greatly improve the present transit service. The cable roads are to be electrized, the three cable power-houses abandoned, and all the electricity generated at the big power-house at Central avenue and Wilde street. This will necessitate the enlargement of the present building, and the introduction of new machinery. More generators and engines will be put in.

The Fifth-ward school question is rather involved. A new school is imperatively needed, and has been promised by the Council. The trouble is in the locating of it. There is already one on Georgia Bell and Seventeenth, and one is being planned for Union and Eighteenth. Now there is a large district to the southwest of these which is very much in need of a school. But in the center of the district, where the building ought really to be, not a lot is offered to the city. The only way to get one would be to institute condemnation proceedings. The probability is that a new school will be built on the very edge of the district at Norwood and Twenty-first streets; only four blocks from two other schools.

(San Diego Union.) Every county in California is today a bidder for settlers with means and industry from the East. Those parts of the State which are ahead in the race are the ones that have learned a lesson from the successful merchant, and advertise. Southern California had a grand chance at the World's Fair to tell the rest of the country about its resources. It improved that opportunity and was repaid a hundred fold. It now has a chance almost as good in the Atlanta Exposition, Other counties are well advanced in preparations to avail themselves of this opening. It is one that San Diego cannot afford to neglect.

this opening. It is one that San Diego cannot afford to neglect.

(Tucson Star:) The sale of the Yuma reservation, located on the California side of the Colorado River, opposite Yuma, will soon be made. It will be sold in ten-acre tracts and at public auction. If there is sufficient notice given, and it becomes generally known, there ought to be a large influx of people in and around Yuma at that time, as the lands which will be offered are the richest and most productive of any in California, and they are located so as to be free from frost, so that not only all kinds of citrus fruits can be raised, but all kinds of vegetables at all seasons of the year.

(San Francisco News-Letter:) The returns of the assessors show that Los Angeles has made the largest increase, for the present fiscal year, of any county in the State, outside of San Francisco. Her gain in taxable wealth is upward of $5,000,000. On the other hand, the assessment of Sacramento county has fallen off by almost $1,000,000. The counties of San Bernardino, Fresno, Sonoma, Yuba, Sutter and others also show a decrease. Part of the reduction in valuations is due to the decline in the price of wheat, which has made wheat lands shrink in value. It is rather a bad year for the farmers, as grain crops have been light, and has made wheat lands shrink in value. It is rather a bad year for the farmers, as grain crops have been light, and no doubt this fact has affected the assessments. The increase in Los Angeles is attributable largely to the constant influx of new residents and fresh capital from the East.

Pomona were girls. Pomona is a good place to keep away from—though that is the only thing that can be said against that pretty city.

The story comes from San Diego that five skeletons have been found in the desert. This shaft had been long covered up with debris and was recently discovered by McHaney, who was prospecting. It is believed that this is the long-lost Pegleg mine, and that the skeletons are the remains of white men killed by the Indians years ago. The Pegleg mine is supposed to be a mine of fabulous richness.

Doubtless a battle royal will be waged today, when the Board of Public Works will listen to the arguments of citizens who do and those who do not favor the granting by the city of an electric-railway franchise on West Eighth street. Doubtless in the end the franchise will be granted, and the who now protest loudest citizens who now protest loudest against such action will in a short time felicitate themselves upon the su-perior transit facilities afforded by the railway. At least, the history of the past gives warrant for believing that such will be the case.

A San Diego woman who travels oss the continent twice a year has a great fear that the train will, on some of her trips, be held up and the passen-gers robbed. Every time she starts on the long journey she prepares some-thing with which to fool the robbers should they molest her. A fine-looking wallet is filled with five or ten silver dollars, while the bulk of her money is placed in another pocketbook and hid-den away. The silver-filled wallet is placed beneath her pillow nightly, and if a robber calls he will be given the silver promptly, while the other purse

A peculiar natural history case is reported by the correspondent of The Times at Tucson, Ariz. A glia monster was killed and skinned. The skinning was done almost immediately after the ng in order to better preserve in all their beauty the marks on the skin heart of the reptile continued to pul-sate regularly for more than three hours after it was taken from the body. The pulsations were both full and strong. The strange fact was witnessed by a number of citizens who, the correspondent states, can testify to the truthfulness of the statement.

It is pleasing to note that the sug-restion of The Times concerning the hulsance created by the blatant blo-ristors, who, in the past, have infested central Park with their presence, is bearing fruit in the action of the Park rfruit in the action of the Park ssioners, who yesterday took unce of the nuisance, with a view nearth the same. Visitors at Avalon frequently remark upon the absolute cleanliness of the grounds and avenues. There is no trace of neglect to be found from one end of the little town to the other. Avalon does not pride herself on such questionable attractions as dead whales and other sea monsters in a state of post-mortem loveliness. The avenues are as clean as if swept, and as smooth as a floor. In fact, the sanitary regulations are above reproach, and this, coupled with the fact that the summer population of the little cove of Avalon Bay double discounts in proportion to her size, that of any other resort on the coast, speaks volumes for the management of the deserving company. All offensive matter is promptly removed, and no dead fish are floating around in the bay or strewing the beach. As a result, everybody is healthy and happy.

Orange county will add another creamery to its already-large list in a few weeks. Beautiful Tustin now comes to the front, and from this time on will show the public that that vicinity has large dairying interests, in addition to its fruit, vegetable and grain resources.

In Prescott, Ariz., all gambling houses are taxed, and the amount derived from licenses averages about $500 a month, all of which goes into the school fund. The problem to be determined now is this: Do children who are educated on the proceeds derived from a tax on gambling-houses acquire a taste for gambling?

Sooner or later this city will have to take action to provide a public market-place for the use of peddlers and ranchmen, who are now forced to use the territory surrounding the Plaza Park as the scene of their operations. No one class would derive the exclusive benefit of such a provision, and its maintenance would be a blessing to buyer, seller and producer.

The Sewer Committee of the Council yesterday prepared a recommendation to the effect that the Superintendent of Buildings be instructed 'to prepare plans specifications and estimates for the repairing and replacing of the defective mbing in the City Hall. The Board of Park Commissioners took action at its meeting yesterday with regard to orators who, in the past, have made it unpleasant for visitors at Central Park, because of their vociferous mouthings in the precincts of the park. The Superior Court was dull and slient in all its departments, but the Supervisors were in session most of the day. The contract was let for official county advertising. The County Surveyor was divertising. The County Surveyor was directed to prepare a profile of a road to Santa Monica, preparatory to its improvement by the local wheelmen.

CITY HALL PLUMBING.

Decisive Action Taken by the Sewer

The only matters of any importance that came before the Sewer Committee of the Council in its session yesterday, was the question of the repairs which Health Officer Steddom has declared must be made in the City Hall plumb ing fixtures. It will be remembered that through the efforts of The Times the nuisance created by the defective plumbing throughout the City Hall building was made the subject of at-tention by the Health Officer, who, some time ago, filed the following, re-port with the Council in relation to the matter:

"To the Honorable Council of the city of Los Angeles: During the past six months numerous complaints have been made at the Health Office regarding the unsanitary condition of the plumbing and fixtures in the City Hell. Accordingly I notified the City Clerk, the custodian of the same, to disinfect, repair and keen the same in a sanitary condiand keep the same in a sanitary condi-tion, if possible, but, after repeated ef-of which report is hereto attached and made a part hereof.

"By reference to this report you will find that there are about forty square feet of unnecessary fouling surface which is constantly emitting odors of decomposing material, which it is impossible to obviate. Already the fixtures in the librarian's office and the ladles' reading-room have been taken out and the openings soldered up to prevent the escape of sewer gas.

"The plumbing is of such construction that it is impossible to render it sanitary by repairs. The traps throughout the system are continually siphoning at various points, therby making direct communication with the sewer, permitting sewer gas to escape into the various rooms of the building.

"In view of these facts I would suggest that the Building Inspector be instructed to prepare plans and specification for the remodeling of the whole system at once.

"The whole system of water supply is "The whole system of water supply is defective. The pressure on the third floor is entirely inadequate to the needs of the same. I suggest that the question of a proper water supply be considered along with the plumbles.

tion of a proper water supply be considered along with the plumbing, as it will be impossible to properly flush fixtures on upper floors without a competent water supply."

The report of the plumbing inspector, mention of which is made in the communication from Dr. Steddom, created a sensation among the City Hall habitues when the facts were made public that the building in its every department is a nest of disease-breeding and death-producing germs and smells, and when the entire affair was referred to the Sewer Committee that body took the matter in hand and gave it the most careful consideration possible. As a result of the deliberations of the committee upon the subject, the following report was yesterday prepared, and will be submitted to the Council at its next meeting:

"In the matter of the report of the meeting:

"In the matter of the report of the Health Officer in regard to the unsanitary condition of the plumbing and fixures in the City Hall, we recommend that the Superintendent of Buildings be instructed to prepare plans and specifications of the changes necessary to render the building sanitary, and also an estimate of the cost of the same."

Plumbing Inspector Burgoin declares an estimate of the cost of the same."

Plumbing Inspector Burgoin declares that the building cannot be put in proper shape without the expenditure of several thousand dollars. He will begin the work of preparing the plans and specifications recommended by the committee, so soon as the Council shall have passed upon the matter.

PARK COMMISSIONERS.

The City Parks to be Provided with

The Board of Park Commissioners met in regular session yesterday morn-ing, all the members of the board being present.

The question of the nuisance created by loud-mouthed ranters, who have in the past invaded Central Park, making that place the scene of their political, social and religious arguments, came before the board, and received some discussion from the individual members of the commission. It was conceded by the entire board that the practices of the pseudo orators referred to make the park an undesirable resort for those who seek peace and privacy in the place, and a resolution was passed by the board, in which Superintendent Meserve is authorized to do away with this nuisance as much as lies in his power.

The secretary of the board was instructed to request of the City Council that the City Engineer survey and set the stakes for the bandstand in Westlake Park. The secretary was also instructed to advertise for bids for the boating privilege in the East Los Angeles Park, as the lease of the present boatman will soon expire. A bill of Mr. Conkin for the drawing of bandstand plans, amounting to $45, was referred to the Auditing Committee.

The board discussed at length the advisability of placing a large number of new settees in the various parks throughout the city, there having been numerous complaints made with regard to the insufficient number now in use. The superintendent was instructed to provide such seats as he may consider necessary, being given full discretion in the matter. It is proposed to expend a large sum of money in the construction of these seats, providing them to the number of several hundred.

A PUBLIC MARKET.

Councilman Kingery is Anxious to Have One Constructed.

Ma Kingery, the Councilman from the Fourth Ward, is interesting himself very much at this time in the pro-ject of providing a public market in the city, for the use of the farmers and peddlers who make their negotiations for vegetables and fruits in the small for vegetables and fruits in the small hours of the morning. Hitherto the circle of sidewalk surrounding the Plaza has been the headquarters for the ranchmen, who have and do utilize this territory for a market place. There is, however, a distressing lack of space surrounding the Plaza that is available for market purposes, and the question of providing a more suitable set of quarters is what is just now engaging the attention of Councilman Kingery. He has investigated the matter quite thoroughly, having made a number of trips to the Plaza, during marketing hours, and declares that relief of some sort must be given the peddlers, some sort must be given the peddlers, some of whom sleep all night in their wagons in order to secure good locations for the business which is transacted in the

It is proposed by Councilman Kingery to impose a tax of several dollars a month on the peddlers and ranchmen, which money can be used for the rental of a large piece of land, centrally located in the city, where there will be no necessity for the crowding which now exists at the Plaza. Mr. Kingery has not entirely formulated his proposed plans as yet, but expects to bring the matter before the Council at its meeting on next Monday, and will at that time have a definite scheme to propose which in its operation will benefit both the city and the marketmen.

THE COURTS.

Ticket Scalpers' Test Case Brought

Yesterday the first guns were fired in the coming battle between the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and the Ticket Brokers' Association by the trial in the Township Court of an action for petty larceny brought by Albert For man, a former news agent on the trains of the Southern Pacific Company, and a present ticket-broker, against Hugh Byrne, a conductor on the division be-Byrne, a conductor on the division be-tween here and San Francisco. On July 24 Forman presented a coupon ticket issued by the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad Company and bearing the name of John H. Frerichs as the proper name of John H. Frerichs as the proper owner, to Conductor Byrne, in payment of fare to San Francisco. Byrne took up the ticket and demanded full fare from Forman. This being refused, the re-fractory passenger was put off at San Fernando. Forman then swore out a complaint against Byrne charging him with largeny in having confiscated a fractory passenger was put off at San Fernando. Forman then swore out a complaint against Byrne charging him with larceny in having confiscated a ticket upon which part of the coupons were still good over lines other than the Southern Pacific; the contention being that the Southern Pacific Company had no jurisdiction beyond its own road, and that the ticket, being an article of money value, had simply been stolen by the conductor.

Promptly at 10 a.m. yesterday the courtroom was filled with spectators interested in the case, which was clearly understood to be a test case on the part of the ticket brokers. The jury was quickly chosen and the trial was put in motion with unusual promptitude. Deputy District Attorney C. C. McComas conducted the case for the State, with W. R. Bacon, Esq., as associate counsel. The defense was managed, single-handed, by A. B. Hotchkiss, Esq., attorney for the Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

Every inch of ground was hotly contested by both sides, and a vast superstructure of legal points and farfetched conclusions was built up on the slender foundation of a petty larceny case. This was simply the pre-liminary dancing back and forth before the combatants came to close quarters, and each sought to take the other at a disadvantage and so land a body blow which should cripple his opponent at the start.

The first witness to be called was Albert Forman, who testified to having boarded the train at the Arcade Depot, and handed the scalped ticket to the conductor just after leaving River station. The conductor put the ticket in his pocket without unfolding it, and walked off. Forman called to him to return it, but he replied that he would "have to see Jim about that," and went on. In a short time he returned with Train Agent James N. Dowling, who requested Forman to write his name on a piece of blank pages. Forman complied by writing the name of John H. Frerichs, the signature on the ticket. He then again requested the return of the ticket, but it was refused on the ground that he was n his refusal he was put off the train at San Fernando.

Mr. Hotchkiss then took the young his refusal he was put off the train at San Fernando.

Mr. Hotchkiss then took the young man in hand for cross-examination, and put him through a variety of fancy paces, in spite of a rattling fire of objections from Mr. Bacon. The battle was lively, being a verbal tussile between lawyer and witness in which honors were nearly equally divided. Forman admitted, under pressure, that he had been in the ticket-scalping business for two years, having graduated from an authorized ticket office in thiscity, and gone into the handling of scalped tickets from a natural taste in that direction. He was not a member of the Association of Ticket Brokers, but his employer was.

The shower of objections here grew so heavy that Mr. Hotchkiss felt obliged to let the witness take breath while he attempted to settle the opposing lawyers. The attempt was futile, and to Mr. Hotchkiss's indignant assertions that he was endeavoring to be a put-up ing lawyers. The attempt was futile, and to Mr. Hotchkiss's indignant assertions that he was endeavoring to prove the whole thing to be a put-up job, Mr. Bacon chanted the refrain of, "incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial, and not proper cross-examination" while Mr. McComas slowly drawled a comically-apt ilustration, which went to show that a horse-thief, for example, would be none the less a horse-thief if the horse he had stolen had been purposely thrown in his way by others who were suspicious of his honesty.

The court endeavored to allay the storm, and did manage to insert a few rulings edgewise, but not until Mr. Hotchkiss was crimson and breathless from much shouting, did momentary "silence, like a poultice, come, to heal the blows of sound," and the witness was given another chance.

This time Mr. Hotchkiss, by a still more vigorous application of the force-pump, succeeded in eliciting the facts.

This time Mr. Hotchkiss, by a still more vigorous application of the force-pump, succeeded in eliciting the facts that H. R. Duffin, from whom he had bought the ticket for $55, was with him on the train, for the purpose of seeing whether or not the ticket would be taken up; and that when asked by Dowling to write his name, he had written the name on the ticket "purely for accommodation."

The witness was then pully regard into written the name on the ticket "purely for accommodation."

The witness was then bullyragged into stating that he had asked for a stop-over at San Fernando, because he wished to spend a few days there, shooting snipe. That little flight of fancy was fatal, for Mr. Hotchkiss pounced on those snipe like a hawk, and threw them one by one in the face of the prosecution during the remainder of the trial, until the mere name of "snipe" caused a chuckle of anticipated glee from the spectators.

The lawyer then dealt a "facer" by sharply inquiring: "Did you, or did you not want that ticket to be taken up?" After the inevitable objection had been overruled, the witness hesitatingly replied: "Well, I wasn't particular about it—no, I didn't want him to take it up."

icular about it—no, I didn't want him to take it up."

Mr. Hotchkiss then asked if he was aware of the stipulation on the back of the ticket. This produced another uproar. Mr. Bacon delivered an energetic harangue; Mr. McComas drawled out a maddening string of objections, and Mr. Hotchkiss danced around like the proverbial hen on a hot griddle, banging the table with his clenched fist and shouting objurgations at the scalpers, witness, lawyers, and almost at the Judge, who vainly endeavored to allay the tempest. At last, he took advantage of a momentary lull, and poured a teaspoonful of oil upon the troubled waters by overruling the objection to the question. Forman then admitted that the ticket had been in his possess. the question. Forman then admitted that the ticket had been in his possession but half an hour, and that he had never read the stipulation. Charles J. Lehman, the employer of never read the stipulation.

Charles J. Lehman, the employer of Forman, was then called to the stand, and, after a lengthy, highly-spiced squabble between the attorneys as to whether it was or was not relevant and material to get at the value of the ticket, with a view of finally establishing the case on the standpoint of either petty or grand larceny, the witness was permitted to state that he considered the ticket worth about $40.

The answer was but an interlude, for the argument about the relevancy or irrelevancy of Mr. Hotchkiss's attempt to establish the fact of a conspiracy on the part of the scalpers went cheerfully on, despite the patient remonstrances of the court. Books were sent for, and long extracts were read by both sides, the volumes then being used to bang the table with by way of emphasis. The prosecution sarcastically asked for enlightenment, and the defense expressed a benign willingness to read all the law they wanted, as he really wished to "educate the boys."

He then turned again to the witness, but before he had fairly got his mouth open for the stem-winder he was meditating, Mr. McComas added the last straw, by dreamily murmuring:

"Objected to on the ground that it is incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial."

"This is a heartless job," yelled Mr.

is incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial."

"This is a heartless job," yelled Mr. Hotchkiss, his bald scalp turning pink with wrath and exertion, as he took it out on the inoffensive table. "Til unmask it, though! I'll give you all the law you want!" If the District Attorney, in his wisdom, is trying grandlarceny cases before a petty jury in a justice's court, I'll show him the law on the subject."

Turning then to the witness, he probed his soul by asking him if the Association of Ticket Scalpers had not gone to the Chief of Police to complain of the presence of spotters, and if the District Attorney had not been appealed to for a complaint, in order that a test case might be brought before the courts. The question was never answered. Mr. Bacon interposed, with his usual vigor and dispatch, and Mr. McComas sat complacently and comfortably turning the crank of his objection mill. In the midst of the hurricane which ensued, the court adjourned for the noon recess.

THE SECOND HALF-DAY.

In the afternoon session, the first witness to be called was Hamp.

THE SECOND HALF-DAY.

In the afternoon session, the first witness to be called was Harry R. Duffin, who had bought the ticket from the original owner. He corroborated the evidence of Forman as to the taking up of the ticket, adding that he had seen Hugh Byrne the night before.

Here the question of the contract or stipulation bobbed up again, Mr. Mc-Comas declaring the statement on the ticket as to the penalty attached to a transfer, to be merely a notice to the holder, and not a contract. The ticket and its two photographs were handed dicket as to the penalty attached to a transfer, to be merely a notice to the holder, and not a contract. The ticket and its two photographs were handed around like refreshments, and Mr. Hotchkiss finally flew to his books in desperation, and read a long decision of the Suprame Court, which Mr. Mc-Comas gently declared to "have about as much application to the case in hand as a last-year's almanac."

The attorney for the defense thereupon entered a vehement objection to the style of prosecution indulged in by the District Attorney, who lay back and smiled, while Mr. Bacom rushed into the arena, the two attorneys going at it hammer and tongs, until the long-suffering justice edged in a patient reminder that he believed there was nothing before the court.

The examination of the witness proceeded as well as could be expected, hampered as it was by objections and side-shots concerning the unfortunate snipe, which now presented a muchrumpled and bedraggled appearance from being tossed back and forth; and figuratively thrown at the head of severy witness in succession.

Selmer Magnus, another of the ticket brokers, was then called, and sat meekly through the usual fight, being dismissed at last, in despair of either side being allowed to ask him a question.

Mr. Hotchkiss opened the case for the defense by asking the justice to instruct the jury to render a verdict of acquittal, on three grounds, namely, that the man was not guilty of petty larceny, that a charge of grand larceny brought him beyond the jurisdiction of the court, and that the pros-duty, and that there was have the felonious intent in his taking up the ticket.

His motion for instruction to acquit having been denied, and his exception noted. Mr. Hotothkiss called the defendant to the stand.

Hugh Ryrne looked slightly uncomfortable in his citizen's clothes, and seemed to realize that he was practically "between the devil and the deep sea," insamuch as he was sure of dismissal if he did not obey his employers and take up scalped tickets, and, in case of conviction this time, equally sure of the penitentiary upon a repetition of the offense.

Mr. Byrne admitted that he had expected the presentation of the ticket as a means of starting the case, as Duffin had told him the night before of the proposed plan of the scalpers. He told practically the same story concerning the scene on the train as the other witnesses, and stated that he received no reward for taking up the ticket, but left the reward and the responsibility of the action to Mr. Downing, the train agent, who was there to look out for just such cases.

The witness was not allowed to do much talking, as the usual row started up with renewed vigor, the pain in Mr. Hotothkiss's temper having grown

The witness was not allowed to do much talking, as the usual row started up with renewed vigor, the pain in Mr. Hotohkins's temper having grown more severe with each succeeding blow, and he sat gazing dreamily out of the window while the attorneys battled over the same old ground, and finally brought up with a jerk exactly at the starting point.

Charles H. White, the ticket agent or the Southern Pacific Railroad Company was then called, but, as his appearance was simply the signal for renewed hostilities concerning the value of the ticket, he was dismissed without being questioned.

The case was then given to the jury without argument, and the twelve good men and true filed out, obedient to the beckoning finger of Deputy Constable Martin, who hermetically scaled them up until they had made up what mind they possessed.

They must have possessed too large a quantity to handle with convenience, for, after stringing back into the courtroom once to ask for renewed instructions, they finally agreed to disagree, and a renewed contest will be the result.

Suit for a Forfeit.

Henry B. Belt yesterday filed with the County Clerk a suit to recover $500 from Prof. O. R. Gleason, the horse-trainer, alleging that the amount is due him a forteit on account of Gleason having falled to subdue a vicious mare belonging to Belt.

During one of Gleason's exhibitions, held in Hazard's Pavilion on the evening of August 15, Prof. Gleason made a public announcement to the effect that he would be willing to give $500 to any person who would bring him a horse that he could not break and subdue so thoroughly that the owner would be able to drive him on the following morning.

Belt accepted the offer, and, on the evening of August 19, took him the victous mare in question. The professor looked the animal over, and then refused to have anything to do with her, alleging that she had no brains, and that all training would be wasted on her.

Mr. Belt, in consequence, was unable to drive his fiery steed on the following morning, and accordingly has brought suit to force the trainer to hand over the $500 forfeited by his failure to handle the animal.

The Deacon-Williams battery case was disposed of yesterday by a $10 fine being inflicted upon Harry Deacon as a punishment for the battering he administered to his neighbor.

Bridges Arraigned.

Bridges Arraigned.

J. H. Bridges limped into the Township Court yesterday for his arraignment on the charge of assaulting William H. Clune with a deadly weapon. Bridges looked badly used up from the effects of his late fracas. His head was bandaged: his neck stuffed out with surgeon's cotton, and he carried his arm in a sling. He was so weak that he was obliged to lean against the Judge's desk as he listened attentively to the reading of the charge.

The trial was set for next Monday at 1:30 p.m.

New Suits. Mrs. Beatrice A. Myers yesterday filed a petition for appointment as guardian of the person and estate of her two minor children, Thomas Chalmers Myers and Ethel Beatrice Myers.

The Santa Monica Bicycle Road—

Pasadens School Bond.

Charlés J. Ellis and others, comprising a committee of gentlemen representing the Bicycle Road Association of Los Angeles county, appeared before the Board of Supervisors yesterday and were heard in behalf of a petition which they presented. This petition asks that a profile of the road to Santa Monica be ordered prepared by the County Surveyor, and that the association at its own expense be permitted thereafter to make certain improvements in the way of grading the road.

Mr. Ellis said there are about six thousand wheelmen in the city and county and alarge number of them have formed an organization. This organization has adopted a system whereby money is received from the members, which money can be used for making road improvements. The aim of the association is to accomplish the improvement of various roads in the neighborhood of Los Angeles. The benefits of such improvements will be received not by the wheelmen inerely, but by the general public.

In line with this object it is proposed first to endeavor to have improved a road to Santa Monica over the route of what is known as the Washington-street road, by way of The Palms.

The board decided to grant the request to have a profile made of that road, and instructed the County Surveyor accordingly.

PASADENA SCHOOL BONDS.

The Board of Supervisors yesterday ordered that provisions be made for the collection of an annual tax sufficient to pay the interest on 140,000 of school bonds, the Issue of which was recently authorized by the Pasadena city school district, and to create a sinking fund for the payment of the principal within ten years. The amounts to be thus levied for the ten years, respectively, are as follows: 1895, 12400; 1894, 12400; 1897, 37400; 1898, 17100; 1899, 1890, 1900, 1800, 1901, 1800, 1902, 1890, 1903, 1890, 1904, 1890, 1904, 1890, 1907, 1890, 1908, 1890, 1907, 1890, 1908, 1890, 1907, 1890, 1908, 1890, 1907, 1890, 1907, 1890, 1907, 1890, 1907, 1890, 1907, 1890, 1907, 1890, 1907, 1890

pany was accepted.

Detailed bids for furnishing stationery were received from Lazarus & Melzer and the Grimes-Stassforth Company. They were taken under advisement.

In response to a request of the Board of Supervisors, the District Attorney has submitted an opinion bearing on the question of the proper procedure of the board in irrigation district cases in the face of the recent decision of Judge

Ross.

The particular case to which the opin The particular case to which the opinion applies is a petition of R. F. House of Pomona, filed with the board July 19 last. This petition states that the directors of the Orange Belt Irrigation District have neglected and refused to levy on the property of the district for the payment of accrued interest on bonds which he (House) holds against such district. He asks that the Supervisors take the necessary steps to compel the collection of the accrued interest on the bonds.

This petition was referred to the District Attorney, and yesterday that official submitted to the board the following:

"Gentlemen: In the matter of the pe

"Gentlemen: In the matter of the petition hereto attached, sec. 22 of the Wright Act provides as follows:

"In case of the neglect or refusal of the board of directors to cause such assessment and levy to be made, as in this act provided, then the assessment of property made by the County Assessor and the State Board of Equalization shall be the basis of assessment for the district, and the Board of Supervisors of the county in which the office of the board of directors is selected shall cause an assessment roll for said district to be prepared, and shall make the levy required by this act, in the same manner and with like effect, as if the same had been made by said board of directors, and all expenses incident thereto shall be borne by the district." If he board is satisfied that the board of directors of said district has neglected or refused to cause an assessment and levy to be made, as stated in the petition, then it is the duty of this board, under said sec. 32 to make the levy, and in the levy to provide not only for the interest, but also to provide for the payment of the expense of making the levy and collecting the tax.

"The Supreme Court of this State having decided that the Wright Act is valid, the Board of Supervisors should continue to act under said Wright Act is valid, the Board of Supervisors should continue to act under said Wright Act is valid, the Board of Supervisors should continue to act under said Wright Act, notwithstanding the decision recently rendered by Judge Ross to the contrary."

Deputy District Attorney Holton, who prepared the above opinion, states he does not intend any disrespect to the decision of Judge Ross. In fact he believes the position assumed by that jurist is a correct one. He believes, however, that it is the duty of the Supervisors to follow the decision of the State Supreme Court until the United States Supreme Court should rule otherwise.

Chicago Tribune:) If masculine greed and cruelty and feminine vanity and thoughtlessness are not in the same manner restrained or punished it is only a question of time, and very short time at that, how soon the earth will lose its birds. Recently the Seattle Argus called attention to the danger of the utter extermination of game birds by the destruction of their eggs on the Alaska breeding grounds. Ducks, geese, swans, and other migratory birds seek the low lands along the Yukon River for their nesting places. The egg-nunters gather their eggs by millions in these as well as in other localities in Southwestern Alaska where the birds resort and sell them for the purpose of manufacturing egg albumen, a commercial article. The destruction of these millions of eggs every spring and summer naturally is rapidly reducing the number of game birds, and the flocks every year grow smaller and smaller. Senator Mitchell of Oregon introduced a bill at the last session of Congress for the protection of these game birds, but, of course, it did not come to vote and it probably never will. The game birds will share the fate of the four footed game, grow fewer every year and finally disappear altogether. When one remem-Destruction of the Birds never will. The game birds will share the fate of the four-footed game, grow fewer every year and finally disappear altogether. When one remembers that thirty years ago the skies were almost darkened by flights of pigeons across Indiana and Illinois and that branches of trees were broken by their weight and numbers, and that the other day a wild pigeon shot in Southern Indiana was regarded as rare a curiosity as a white blackbird, it can be realized how rapidly game birds are disappearing. The game birds which are not migratory are also hunted are not migratory are also hunted down in spite of game laws, and every year grow scarcer and dearer in the markets. If nothing is done to protect the migratory birds there will soon be an end of game birds. The greed of gain will end their existence.

The destruction of game birds, however, is small as compared with the slaughter of the handsome plumaged birds to gratify female vanity and satisfy the demands of fashion. Take a single instance by way of illustration and from that learn all. The plumes of the bird of paradise are in great demand for female adornment. Jules Forest in his "Oiseaux dans la Monde" says perfect specimens of this bird can no longer be found owing to the fearful slaughter of them that has been going on during the last ten years. Forest says: "They are so industriously hunted that the males are not permitted to reach full maturity, and the birds which now flood the market are for the most part young ones, still clothed in their first plumage, which lacks the brilliancy displayed in the older bird, and are consequently of small commercial value." As to the tuft of delicate plumes from these birds which are so much in demand by milliners a writer on Nature says: "These are sold by milliners with the assurance that they are real. They are often mixed with osprey tips, which, to the shame of womanhood, have so long been in fashion, and are still large; used. I may state on trustworthy authority that during the last season one warehouse alone has disposed of no less than 60,000 dozen of these mixed sprays."

The destruction of bird life is not confined to the bird of paradise or to his tropical habitat. All the bright-plumaged birds of this country, the humming, birds, bluebirds, orioles, red-birds, indigo birds, golden linnets, and numerous others, and even sea and lake birds; such as gulls, sandplpers, plover and curiews, with their delicate gray shades of feather, are killed by hundreds of thousands, if not by millions, simply for the purpose of gratifying human stilliness. The outcome wi

EORGE T. JOHNSTON'S DAY OF

At Catalina He Cut a Wide Swath and Was Called the Monte Cristo of the West-The Sheriff is Look-ing for Him Now.

According to an Associated Press dis-patch from San Francisco, confirmed by a telegraphed request to Sheriff Burr for the arrest of the man, the day of reckoning for George T. John-ston, the alleged Arizona millionaire who has cut such a dash at Catalina the past few weeks, has come. The San Francisco dispatch reads as folnix, Ariz. and latterly of Los Angeles and Catalina Island. Some time ago the firm received from Johnston at Phoenix an order for goods, promising prompt remittance. The goods, worth $2000, were sent him, and instead of remitting, it is said Johnston held a clearance sale, disposing of the goods at a sacrifice. When the firm heard that Johnston was cutting a wide swath cn Catalina, giving steamboat parties and holding fireworks displays, a warrant was issued, charging Johnston with intent to defraud his creditors."

Sheriff Burr has been telegraphed by the San Francisco authorities to arrest Johnston, who was in the city yesterday but managed to dodge the minions of the law. Johnston was seen at the Hollenbeck Hotel by several people who know him well, as late as 5 p.m. He is said to be staying at a lodging-house on Spring street between Third and Fourth, and had an engagement to go to the Los Angeles Theater yesterday evening, but whether he kept it is not known. The Sheriff and his deputies were handicapped in their search, because they had no description of the man.

were handicapped in their search, because they had no description of the man.

Johnston may have seen the dispatch about a warrant being out for him, in the evening papers, and gone into hiding or left the city; at any rate, no one could be found who knew of his where abouts after 5 p.m.

A former resident of Phoenix who saw Johnston on the street yesterday afternoon, informed a Times reporter that the story about his clearance sale is correct, although he would not vouch for the statement that it was done to defraud creditors. The gentleman said Johnston was formerly a dry goods clerk in Phoenix. About a year ago he bought a large stock of goods and opened a dry goods store of his own. Several months ago he went, East and telegraphed his manager at Phoenix that he had inherited $35,000 in England and had to go there to prosecute his claim. He instructed his manager to sell everything in the store at any price, as he did not wish to be encumbered with the business any longer. A big clearance sale was, therefore, started. Flaming advertisements in the Phoenix papers stated that the goods had to be sold, and gave the reason why. Such bargains were never before offered in Arizona and the stock of goods was sold out in a trice.

It appears that Johnston, who is a dapper young Englishman, about 30 years of age, did go abroad and returned with some money, which, with that realized by the sale of his goods.

It appears that Johnston, who is a dapper young Englishman, about 30 years of age, did go abroad and returned with some money, which, with that realized by the sale of his goods, he proceeded to "blow in" in royal style. He came to Los Angeles with an excursion party which left Phoenix' about August 7, and immediately hied himself to beautiful Avalon, where he soon distinguished himself as the swellest nabob on the island. He spent money with such a lavish hand and entertained so gorgeously that he was dubbed "the Monte Cristo of the West."

While some of the islanders doubted that Johnson was all that he represented himself to be, the majority of the giddy throng courted his acquaintance and were happy when he deigned to smile upon them. Mammas with marriageable daughters especially tagged after "Monte Cristo," and the alleged millionaire was soon acquainted with every pretty girl on the island. He was munificent in his entertainment, one of his favorite forms of amusement being to hire a steam yacht and take as many as a hundred guests on fishing excursions. Nothing but champaign "went" in the way of liquid refreshments, and "Monte Cristo's" fishing parties were all the talk of the Island. It is not often that a visitor comes to the island who spends $100 a day for boat hire alone.

Johnston brought wnth him from Phoenix, as a traveling companion, a young man whose expenses he has been paying. This young man told an acquaintance in this city that Johnston really did fall heir to about $35,000 in England, but that he could not get it for a long time; he, therefore, sold his claim to the legacy for $7000 or $8000, and this, with the money derived from the sale of his store, was all he had to "blow in." At the rate he has been spending it since coming to Southern California he cannot have very much of it left. It may be, though, that he still has enough to pay off Murphy, Grant & Co.'s claim, and will thus get out of the clutches of the law in case the officers succeed in finding him today.

Federal Building Imp

Bids were received yesterday by Custodian J. T. Gaffey of the government building for the making of certain proposed changes in the upper floors of that structure. The proposals were from Mackey & Young, Thomas H. O'Neil and John Rebman. All of them are stated to be in excess of the appropriation, which is $5000. Mr. Gaffey, after receiving the bids and opening them to see that they were accompanied by certified checks and were properly made out, resealed them and sent them on to the United States Treasury Department at Washington. He says it would not be proper at this time to state the several amounts of the bids.

The Summerland Robbery.

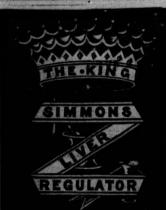

Postoffice Inspector Flint investigated Wednesday the robbery of the postofice in Summerland. The safe, which was drilled and blown open, was found to be a cheap affair. With the tools used the robbers could not have opened a modern safe. Some clews of the robbers were obtained and it is possible that they may be caught.

of summer, and more than half of the population is taking a rest at the beach or in the mountains, the real estate business is by no means dead. On the cor trary, there is a fair inquiry for all kinds of property and the prospect that a good many important deals will be sed up as soon as people get back m the country. It is true that building has fallen off a little during the week, but this is not surprising when it is considered that people who are going off to the country have no time to attend to the details of buildng contracts and plans.

BROADWAY.

One of the noticeable features of the past few weeks has been the increased life and activity on Broadway of an evening. Some time ago The Times suggested that people doing business on Broadway should light up their premises of an evening, so as to make the street look more cheerful. To some extent this has been done, notably in the case of one retail firm, which makes a very bright showing after dark.

During the daytime the throng of vehicles and pedestrians on Broadway, between First and Third, is quite noteworthy, and it is evident that many months will not elapse before the street assumes the appearance of a crowded business thoroughfare.

STREET RAILROAD IMPROVE-BROADWAY.

STREET RAILROAD IMPROVE-

The announcement that the Consolidated Electric Railway Company, whose bondholders have recently acquired the system, will expend half a million dollars in improvements, means much fos Los Angeles. It means much not only in increased facilities of travel for the citizens of Los Angeles, but as an advertisement to outside parties.

when the cable system was constructed it was said by many that such a railroad system would be ahead of the necessities for many years to come. Then, on top of this, came the electric system, and since then the Hook system, which in itself is something any city might be proud of. Now comes the announcement that another half million dollars is to be expended in street-car improvements. Such an enterprise certainly shows great faith on the part of outside investors in Los Angeles and must inspire a corresponding faith on the part of Easterners who have their eyes directed this way.

TEARING UP STREETS.

TEARING UP STREETS.

Comment has frequently been made in this department on the folly and absurdity of tearing up newly-graded or paved streets to lay pipes or wires absurdity of tearing up newly-graded for paved streets to lay pipes or wires ahortly after the streets had been completed, and then leaving them in such a condition that they go to pieces after the first rain. The Times has suggested as a desirable and necessary improvement, at least in the central portion of the city, where the streets are paved, that an underground conduit should be constructed, in which all pipes and wires could be laid from time to time without disturbing the surface of the street. In San Francisco, which is behind Los Angeles in the matter of street paving, they have at length come to the conclusion that it is time to get rid of the cobble stones which are such a prominent feature in the streets of that city and a beginning is to be made by paving Market street with bituminous rock. Before doing so, however, it is proposed to devise some plan for the laying of gas pipes, electric wires, etc., so that the new pavement will not have to be torn up every time a gas pipe springs a leak. On this subject the San Francisco Street Superintendent spoke as follows to an Examiner reporter:

"It is mot an easy matter to deal

ject the San Francisco Street Superintendent spoke as follows to an Examiner reporter:

"It is not an easy matter to deal with the numerous pipes that it is absolutely necessary to lay in the streets.
The question has been practically solved by the engineers of Paris, who have proved that a large conduit can be built, capable of carrying all the gas, water, electric light, telephone and telegraph lines that are needed in cittes of the largest size. As a matter of fact, it is impossible to keep streets in good condition unless there is a conduit, and the greatest trouble with our streets today is that they have been so often cut up and never relaid in just the same manner as they were prior to being taken up. I cannot speak with any definiteness of the size or cost of a conduit such as would be required on Market street, but I should thing that about eight feet deep by six broad would be about the proper size."

The idea is a good one and should be considered by the authorities of Los Angeles. The money that would be saved by avoiding the constant tearing up of streets would pay for such an improvement within a few years, in addition to which there would be a considerable rental to be derived by the city from electric, gas and water companies.

A NEAR-IN MOUNTAIN RESORT.

In commenting recently on the open-superiority of Cole's Peak is found. The eye ranges uninterruptedly north, south, east, west. From no other height can a single glance take in the snow-capped range of the Sierras, over the broad extent of the San Gabriel Valley. The plains of the San Fernando, Tehachepi, Los Angeles, the fertille country to the Santa Ana, and the Cahuenga to the ocean far out over Santa Catalina, San Clemente and the Santa Barbara Channel Island, 100 miles distant. Yet such is the surprise which awaits those who have been fortunate enough to scale its heights, which, however, is comparatively easy of ascent over the trail, which involves no hard climbing. The base of the peak is about five miles from the Courthouse and less than an hour's walk from the end of the Temple-street cable railway. From the route of the proposed electric line to the base of the peak along Vermont avenue, is a short distance—not much over a mile. The electric wires could be easily extended to this point. From the foot to the peak is, perhaps, 1000 feet, up whose sides an inclined car line could be constructed at a very moderate expense, in comparison with most mountain railways. On the peak pavillons should be erected for pleasure parties, where the contents of the lunch basket could be enjoyed. A telescope or a good glass would also add very materially to the attractions. The small expense which such an excursion would cost the tourist on this trip would insure a crywded business at all seasons of the year. Passengers could be taken to the foot of the peak (which is the same distance from the Courthouse as the University) for a nickel fare. The round trip on the incline car and use of pavillon would pay a handsome profit at 25 cents, and seats might be at a premium. Then the short time consumed in reaching the peak would be a great item. One could easily make the round trip from the city in three hours, and have an hour and a half to spend on the mountain. Its low cost to visitors, the magnificent view to be obtained, and ease in reaching from the ci in a southerly direction there is an expanse of territory embracing much good soil, although here and there there is a little alkaline land. This section has been much more improved than that which lies between Los Angeles and Santa Monica on the west, where big ranches still await subdivision. In the section referred to between Los Angeles and Redondo are several flourishing little settlements. There is Moneta and Gardena and Howard's Summit, around which place many acres have been planted to walnuts, olives and other fruits. A part of the Rosecrans ranch is on the market and several other subdivisions are contemplated out there. Settlement in this direction would be much more rapid were it not for the outrageous nuisance which exists there in the shape of an expanse of stagnant water known as Nigger Slough, the foul odors of which are enough to breed disease—not to speak of disgust—for many miles around. The stench is caused mainly by yast quantities of dead carp, which rot on the banks of the slough, and is added to by the filth of a large drove of hogs. The Times has done good service to the unfortunate residents of this section and has earned their gratitude by showing up this outrageous annoyance, notwithstanding the false position taken by a few of the large property owners in the neighborhood, who were afraid that a discussion on this subject would injure their chances of making a sale. It is a shameful thing that men who have invested their money and labor in building up little homes in this section and labor in building up little homes in this section should be much the section should be section. ection has been much more improved have invested their money and labor in building up little homes in this sec-tion should have to submit to such a dangerous nuisance, which has already

The good effect of this improvement has already been felt and several new buildings are going up in that vicinity, while plans are being made for a good many more. The opening of this line will do much to popularize the Eastside park, which is undoubtedly the prettiest and most interesting park in the city, although it is safe to say that quite a large proportion of the citizens of Los Angeles have never visited it.

GREATER LOS ANGELES. The Council has instructed the City Attorney to prepare the necessary ordinances and notices calling for an election to decide whether the districts south and west of the city and Highland Park shall be annexed to Los Angeles. There appears to be little doubt that the annexation proposition will be approved by the voters and in this case it is estimated that the population of Los Angeles will be at least 100,000.

This movement will undoubtedly be followed before many years by the annexation of other sections adjacent to the city, and the coming century is likely to open upon a Los Angeles whose limits extend from the Sierra summits to the sunset sea.

rule, there being several wells which yield 100 barrels and more dally.

The success which has attended the sinking of wells in this direction will doubtless encourage boring in the section lying between Temple street and Bellevue avenue and across Bellevue avenue in a northeasterly direction. Lots in this region are held at reasonable prices and there are few improvements of much value, while there are large tracts of land without any improvements at all. Should it be proved that the oil belt extends out that way the result will undoubtedly be to stimulate values throughout that part of town. There would be little opposition to the invasion of this territory by the derricks as instead of depreciating the value of property the deviopment of oil would largely increase it. Success in this direction would be followed up by prospecting further to the east and north with the result that, as already mentioned in The Tmies, the limits of the local oil belt are likely to be more or less definitely defined within a few months.

WRITE LETTERS WELL.

They are the Truest Index of Our Best Thoughts.

They are the Truest Index of Our Best Thoughts.

The most delightfully worth-while, writes Mrs. Roger A. Pryor in the Delineator, of all accomplishments is, to my mind, that of writing charming letters. However sweet a song may be, it is evanescent as a breath, and survives as a divine memory only. Conversation requires the actual presence of those who engnage in it, and the pleasure it gives depends upon many things—a melodious voice, an attractive appearance, may be cheerful rooms, congenial surroundings, freedom from the cares and interruptions of life. But it matters not how cold and bare a garret home may be, nor how forbidding its outlook upon the chimney-pots under a wintry sky; or whether the lodge be in a wilderness or foreign land; given some measure of leisure, good stationery, and a convenient postomee, all the world may be ours. We may daily send forth, on white wings, our highest thoughts and most gracious words, and a full meed of appreciation will surely return to us.

Such a correspondence may be independent of the formalities of an introduction. No third person is needed if we wish to express our gratitude to a philanthropist, philosopher, or poet. These dwellers in the realms of thought are peculiarly susceptible to this delicate form of flattery. Momentous consequences have occasionally been the outgrowth of adouantsmost thus begun. I knew a happy marriage to result from such a correspondence with a poet, and we all have known friendships, ending only with life, which have been nourished as they were begun, by letters only.

Of course, in the high thinking that must govern correspondence bringing about such results, formulas of expression and matters of stationery are quite swept into the background, and yet, I fancy, the initial letters in most cases must be immaculate-prim, trig, little affairs, neat and trim as an epigram, producing something like the impression one receives from a perfectly-gloved hand extended for its first greeting. The introductory letters must be happilly worded—cela va sans direbut I am sure they should also be neatly written.

One should have an alcohol lamp or a roll of the wax tapers sold for the purpose, and still air in the room to properly seal letters. With the seal and envelope before you, turn one end of the stick of wax rapidly over the flame, not near enough to ignite it, until it is creamy and ready to drop, then deftly rub it round and round over the point of the envelope flap until enough is deposited, when the dab of wax may be held a moment immediately over the flame. Then firmty press the seal into it. If a drop of the hot wax is first placed under the point of the flap, the seal will be less likely to break. A well-cut seal will never stick, and practice will insure a firm impression, with the wax molded neatly and evenly around the seal. In all this pray be careful. Blazing wax in some hands its dangerous. Remember Mrs. Longfellow's sad fate from the lace of her letters.

WIFE MURDERER CAPTURED IN OKLAHOMA TERRITORY.

Rise in Price of Coppe

A Citizen Makes a Gift of Property session of it Again.

An Interesting Case of Natural His tory—Fight Over the Nogales Disincorporation Question— A Snake Fight.

PHOENIX, (Ariz.) Aug. 20 .- (Regu George Sanders lar Correspondence.) George Sanders. a farmer of Glendale, had an escape from a highwayman last night that was unintentional on his part. He was riding on horseback, and a mile beyond Five Points was given the regulation order to hold up his hands by a figure that loomed up in the darkness behind a revolver that looked to the young man as big as a cannon. The hands man as big as a claim. In a went up and the figure approached. Sanders was then asked if he had any money. He admitted that he had a 35 bill. This he was told to produce, still keeping one hand in the air. Sanders does not deny that he was frightened and shely. In feat he trembled so that and shaky. In fact he trembled so that his spurs shook. One of them rattled against the horse's side, and the animal plunged. The robber swore and shot. Sanders ducked and used the spurs again, this time purposely. The traveler got away unscathed.

CAPTURE OF A MURDERER. In May, 1892, John M. Lee, a ranche county, murdered his wife in a brutal manner. Apparently without provocation he shot her to death with double-barrelled shotgun. He made his escape, heading northward. He was trailed through northern Arizona, New Mexico and Colorado. There all races of him were lost. The office son of Gila county, the search requiring son of Gila county, the search requiring several weeks. The Sheriff then pursued the usual tactics of sending notifications to other officers throughout the West. Lee has just been heard from again. Application has been made to Gov. Hughes to obtain requisition papers for Lee in Oklahoma. He has been located at Higgins, near the Oklahoma and Texas border. Rewards has been located at Higgins, near the Oklahoma and Texas border. Rewards of $300 by the Territory and $1000 by the friends of the murdered woman were offered. These Thompson will probably come in for. Lee is also supposed to have been connected with King Ussery in the stage robbery near Riverside, Ariz., where the Well-Fargo box was locted of a $600 bar of silver bullion.

AN INDIAN FIGHTER. William A. Hill of Mesa was yester-day committed to the Insane Asylum, He is an employee of a winery, and for a while back indulged too much in the product, resulting in the unbalancing of his mind. His chief hallucination of his mind. His chief nanucination was that he was waging continual warfare against Indians. With a hatchet he thrashed the air in all directions until he imagined he had killed forty of them. After the laborious work of alaying Indians for recreation, he took his fish-pole and went fishing in the sand.

A GOOD PROPERTY INVOLVED. According to the laws of Arizona a wife cannot dispose of the common property of husband and wife, although property of husband and wife, although the husband can. A good property here is involved on that point. In 1883 Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Woods purchased a property on Washington street, opposite the Gibson stable, now valuable. In 1889 the couple separated, he going to California, Mrs. Woods remaining here. In 1890 Mrs. Woods sold the property to A. Redewill for $2000, and Mr. Redewill sold it to Dr. Tuttle for $4000. Dr. Tuttle has improved the property considerably. Woods died last February. His heirs now bring suit for recovery of the property was sold by Mrs. Woods without the knowledge or consent of the husband, and was therefore, under the statutes, not a legal sale.

TUCSON, Aug. 20.—(Regular Correspondence.) Ten copper mines surrounding here are now working, and numerous claims are being opened for production. This increase in local production is due to the rise in prices paid smelter. Yesterday copper ched $12.30, the highest point since the late reaction. The smelter has advanced prices from $1.45 a unit to $1.70 a unit. The present quotation of $12.30 is about equal to $1.90 a unit, so another rise may be rightfully expected. Financial papers show the rise to be due to a falling off in production of 50,000 tons in the past year; an increased demand for the metal for electrical purposes, and a late rediscovery of a process for weldthe metal for electrical purposes, and a fate rediscovery of a process for welding copper with other metals. New uses of copper are thus brought into existence and it is estimated that the consumption will be increased by 50 per Recently, rather than grade the street Recently, rather than grade the street and sidewalk fronting a property owned by Leo Goldschmidt, that gentleman offered it as a gift to the city, conditional on placing before it the legal requirements as to grades of that body. The city accepted, and graded the street, but laid no sidewalk. Mr. Goldschmidt has accordingly taken possession again. At a Council meeting on the question there were two opinions. One was that the donation be entirely disregarded, and the other that the city make an attempt to hold the ground by virtue of Mr. Goldschmidt's public dedication of it.

NOGALES, Aug 20.—(Regular Correspondence.) The fight for the life of the corporation of Nogales is now on in Tucson. The Mayor and Councilmen are all at Tucson, as are Messrs. Pas choly and Cummings for the Merchants' Protective Association, the organization in opposition to the city. The Council made reply to a compression choly and Cummings for the Merchants' Protective Association, the organization in opposition to the city. The Council made reply to a compromise proposition from the merchants that the association, on their part, did not bind themselves to do anything in consideration of what the Council was expected to do on its part. They further rejected the overtures on the ground that the association asked the city to bear the expenses already incurred by that body in fighting the incorporation. The association members pledged themselves personally to pay the bugaboo Cro sociation members pledged themselves personally to pay the bugaboo Cro Blanco road fund as follows: F. G. Wolf, $50; Levy & Goldsmith, $100; total, $1165.

A week ago Court Commissioner Chalmers of Tucson, in the absence of Judge Bethune, enjoined the Council from acting.

The case will present some perplexing features. One is a question of the au-thority of the Court Commissioner to It is claimed he may take final action only in habeas corpus cases. The present case will be practically a final action. The Council would be shorn of its power till October on the return of Judge Bethune. In the meantime the city government could not hold together. The matter of jurisdiction was argued yesterday, the commissioner being inclined to believe he had jurisdiction.

PRESCOTT.

PRESCOTT, Aug. 20.—(Regular Correspondence.) Prohibitory orders to the contrary notwithstanding, City Engineer Mahoney, finds it impossible to keep any water in the reservoir, for no matter how much may be there at nightfall, when day breaks the next morning the water has vanished. Of course this is due to the depredations of water moonshiners, whose methods have, as yet, baffied detection. The result of this is that the water has to be held in the well and the engine fired up and the pump ready night and day to force the water from the well into the pipes in case of fire. There is ample water for that purpose, but it would be more convenient to keep a small supply in the reservoir.

Prescott people were yesterday complaining of a very hot day. The maximum temperature was $2 deg.

Indications of water are getting better in the city prospect well. Blasting through several feet of solid rock has been done. The present formation is loose dirt and boulders.

Coles A. Bashford, a business man here, has arranged to engage in the hardware business in Los Angeles.

In Yavapai county the total revenue from liquor licenses is $15,552 per year, which goes into the general fund. Gambling licenses in the county average about $500 per month, all of which goes into the school fund.

YUMA.

YUMA, Aug. 20.-(Regular Correspondence.) Prisoners at the peniten-tiary have been paroled by Gov. Hughes as follows: George W. Rood, on grounds of exemplary conduct and advanced age; George Margausch, John C. Irving, Hillarlo Sanchez, Kit Carson and Fred Schaffer. The prisoners will be employed on public works about the Territory on a salary fixed by the Board of Control. Their parole only continues during good behavior. The Governor takes this method of clemency in preference to absolute pardon. The new freedom for the men began today. Numerous applications for the parole were made by the prisoners. A MEAN RELATIVE

One morning recently J. Deheney of San Francisco, a consumptive, was found dead in his bed at the hotel. Jerry Deheney, a relative, was telegraphed as to what disposition he wished made of the remains. He wired back to embalm and ship them to San Francisco at an expense not to exceed back to embalm and ship them to San Francisco at an expense not to exceed $50. The cousin was telegraphed that it was impossible to do as requested, as the expense for ice, casket and embalming would be $150. The cousin answered that no more than the first amount offered would be allowed. On receipt of this dispatch, as the remains had been kept on ice as long as possible, they were buried. Several hours later the cousin telegraphed "to forward remains" and guaranteed expenses. The body was disinterred late last night, put in a zinc coffin and expressed to the above city.

No little attention was attracted by a Yuma squaw here. Her attire was the attraction, everybody turning out to see her. She was arrayed in a fine dark-blue silk skirt, with a white waist of sich material. Her pappoose was togged out in fine array for a white baby. Over them, to save their complexions, was a silk parasol. A prediction is made that it will not be long before the Yuma squaw will don bloomers, curl her hair, wear an opera hat and high-heeled shoes.

Pressure is being brought to bear on the Governor to pardon a boy named Zach Booth, who is serving a five-year sentence for cattle-stealing. The recommendation is indorsed by Congressman Catchings of Mississippi and Mark Smith.

last week called his mother to come into the yard and see a wonderful sight. There were two snakes over three feet long, and of about equal size, having a battle to the death. One was a blacksnake and the other a rattlesnake with five rattles. The former had seized the rattler by the head, and was swallowing him whole. As Mrs. Wright and the children stood there, the rattlesnake entirely disappeared in the body of the blacksnake. The rattler made frantic struggles to prevent the swallowing act, but it was no use, and his rattles sounded his death, as they were lost to sight.

For Atlanta.

The materials for the Southern Callfornia display at the Atlanta Exposition are nearly all ready. There is a big pyramid of packing cases at the Chamber of Commerce, but it has not yet been decided upon what road they will journey eastward. The Southern Pacific will carry them free to New Orleans, but the express charges from that point on would be heavy. The Chamber of Commerce people are trying to get the Santa Fe to give the display-free shipment to St. Louis. From there on they can probably be gotten to Atlanta without charge.

RIVERSIDE COUNTY.

KNAPP'S HOUSE AND FURNI-

Poorly-equipped Fire Depart ment Powerless to Save It—A Rich Mine—Bicycle vs. Horse—Ar Expedition to Redlands—Back From Mexico.

Riverside had another fire Wednes day night in which the residence of H. A. Knapp was burned to the ground, and the most of its contents either de-stroyed or so badly soiled as to be after the fire alarm souunded, while only a few blocks, was sufficient to prevent the fire department from getting upon the scene with its ancient mode of locomotion until the whole building was ablaze. Riverside has mode of locomotion until the whole building was ablaze. Riverside has had several fires lately, and in every instance, when off of the main streets, the buildings have been burned to the ground. This is no fault of those in the fire department, but comes from the penny wise and pound foolish policy applied to this department. The city does not even own a span of horses to run on the central hose cart, but resort is had, if a team is secured at all, to a livery stable, and when the men pull the wagon by hand they are tired out after running a block, and must of necessity walk the balance of the way, if the fire is at a greater distance. If the city owned a good team of horses properly trained to their work, a fire could be reached within a very few minutes after the alarm is rung in. The fire department under the present arrangements is practically useless, and the money paid out in its support is simply thrown away.

Mr. Knapp's house cost over $3000 in its erection, and was insured for $1500.

THE GRANITE MINE.

THE GRANITE MINE.

The San Bernardino Sun has gotten some of our people worked up by announcing that Joe Brown and two other San Bernardino parties were owners of the Granite mine, out on the desert, and by insinuating that the mine is in San Bernardino. There is considerable feeling between the two counties and county towns, much of it uncalled for, but an error of this kind justifies resentment. Not only the Granite mine, one of the richest on the desert, but also the McHaney mine, for which $500,000 has been refused, are in Riverside county, and three-quarters of the Granite mine is owned by residents of Riverside. Mrs. E. H. Hendsch, whose husband was recently killed by Jerry Gardner, is owner of one-fourth interest in the mine, and since the death of her husband she has become a resident of this city. A half-interest is owned by A. S. White, Silas Masters and John E. Hall, all well-known citizens of Riverside. The Granite is indeed a valuable property, and with the most of the other valuable mines on the desert, east of Riverside, is in this county.

THE A. P. A'S AT REDLANDS.

A trainload of Riverside A. P. A's visited Redlands' council yesterday evening and came back overflowing with praise for their reception and entertainment by their Redlands friends. In fact, they say that the Redlands people are the best hosts in Southern California. They have such a whole-souled, earnest way of doing things that the Riversiders were at once made at home. But this is only characteristic of Redlands people—they never do things in a small way. An excellent programme of speech and song was arranged, and a middle number was a fine banquet. Every one came back with "a chip on his shoulder" looking for the fellow that had anything to say against the Redlands people.

AN EVEN DOZEN.

Dr. Swift Has Now Discovered His Occasional Contributor Times.)

Dr. Lewis Swift, director of the Low Observatory, discovered the first comet of 1895 on the morning of August 21. It will be known during the curren year as comet A. Should it be the first to pass its perihelion this year it will take its place in future catalogues as comet I, 1895.

comet I, 1895.

From three to five comets are discovered annually on an average, but during the last fwelve months, according to Dr. Swift, there has been a dearth of these interesting visitors. The coy stranger which has just come into view was therefore very welcome, and will awaken keen interest throughout the astronomical world.

This is the twelfth comet credited to Dr. Swift, and its discovery was quite fortuitous. After several hours' patient search with his 4½-inch comet-seeker, he was about to turn in for his fraction of a night's rest, when, glancing along the zodiac, he remembered that the lest nebula discovered by him at Rochester was in the constellation Pisces, and he concluded to take a look at it.

To observe that faint object it was necessary to use the large sixteen-inch refractor. While adjusting the position of the great instrument, his keen eye noticed a small, faint patch of nebulous light. He referred to his catalogue, and no nebula was recorded in that locality. Was it a newly-discovered nebula or a new comet?

Suspecting its true nature, he riveted his gaze upon the hazy cloudlet to ascertain whether it was fixed or moving. With a thrill of excitement, which only an astronomer can appreciate, he perceived that it was very slowly releasing itself from the spider web in his instrument, where two delicate filaments cross each other in the center of the field.

Carefully he noted its exact position: Right ascension, 0h. 27m, and 40s.; dec-

Carefully he noted its exact position:
Right ascension, 0h. 27m. and 40s.; declination, north, 5 deg. and 30m., or, expressed less technically, a short distance southeast of the bright star Beta Pegasus. It was moving very slowly to the east, a little north, at an angle of about 5 deg. to the ecliptic.

Assured that the mysterious object was a comet, Dr. Swift, at the first opportunity, telegraphed the important news to Dr. Barnard at the Lick Observatory, and to Prof. Edward C.
Pickering, director of the Harvard Observatory, who sent the news at once to all other American astronomers.
Prof. Pickering also forwarded the message to Kiel, Germany, whence it was immediately transmitted to every observatory throughout the eastern hemisphere.

It is, therefore, highly probable that It is, therefore, highly probable that every large telescope on the globe, where atmospheric conditions permitted, were last night pointed to Swift's comet of 1895, and noting its progress in the heavens. Dr. Swift was at his post again this morning and found that during the previous twenty-four hours his comet had moved 3im. moon) in a direction slightly north of east.

It will take three careful observations and some very abstruse computations to even roughly determine the orbit. We shall then know whether it is moving nearly along the line of sight toward or away from the earth, or at right angles to the line of sight along a perihelion at a great distance from the sun. In the latter case, it will never be any brighter than it is now, but if it is moving toward the center of our system it may develop into a magnificent body.

As yet, no pronounced tail is visible, although Dr. Swift imagined, but was not quite sure, that he perceived the surgestion of a protuberance on one side. If so, the comet is approaching the earth, the appendage is sure to grow, and, if it comes near enough, may become a very conspicuous object in the nocturnal heavens.

The allegation is made in the report referred to that Dr. Davidson, the physician attending the fever patient, charges the Health Officer with gross carelessness in failing to properly disinfect the premises of to properly disinfect the premises of Mr. Millard. Dr. Steddom, in speaking of the affair, declares that Dr. Davidson has been in constant communication with him during the progress of the case, and at no time has given expression to such sentiments as are attributed to him in the published report. The disinfecting was done by Inspector Keyes, one of the trusted employees of the office, whom Dr. Steddom, however, has not yet had the opportunity to question regarding the method by which the disinfecting was carried out. Dr. Steddom naturally expresses regret at even the semblance of carelessness existing in his department, but is confident that the facts in the case will disprove any such allegation or even suspicion.

WALL STREET.

Clews Says That it is Not Gamblers' Paradise.

It has been the habit of too many people—well-meaning people, too—to de-cry Wall street, as hurtful to the morals of the country and injurious to our best business interests. Now, this is all wrong. Wall street has been very aptly described as the "business pulse of the nation." It is that in the very best meaning of the term. As the minute hand on the clock denotes the fractional tions in the Wall-street markets snow the rise and fall of the business temperature of the country. Let there be perature of the country. Let there be any activity in mercantile or manufacturing circles, and it is immediately reflected in the stock exchange and the other exchanges where values are dependent upon public confidence.

On the other hand, causes that influence the outside world harshly, have a depressing effect in Wall street and the prices of securities and products take a lower turn. These are the results when natural conditions are allowed to have effect. Of course there are times when speculative syndicates get control of financial channels, and by their manipulation upset natural conditions are manipulation upset natural condiget control of mancial channels, and by their manipulation upset natural condi-tions and prevent them from having natural results. It is at such times that panics result. There never has been a panic in Wall street that was not one to the work of men joined in a combina-tion to give false effect to natural condi-tions.

to the work of men joined in a combination to give false effect to natural conditions.

Wall street is essentially a place where the law of cause and effect is most marked. It is as impossible for any combination of men to resist these laws as it is for any human being to defy the laws of nature. You cannot stay the tides or dam the Mississippi. An expressive or somewhat irreverant operator in grain speculations, commenting once on the fallure of a pool to put up the price of wheat and maintain it, in the face of a big crop, said: "It is no use trying to buck against the will of God Almighty. He can upset the bulls every time." To the student of affairs there is much more truth expressed in these few terse words of a disappointed speculator than in whole columns of the long sermons, and the tirades preached against Wall street ways and means by ministers who have only a cursory idea of the subject they are are talking about; and seek only to decry what they do not understand. Wall street is not a gambler's paradise. There is no place in the business world, where more hard work, closer calculation, keener insight into affairs and philosophical and conservative conclusions are required than in the bankers' and brokers' offices of Wall street. There is no class of men who watch events more closely than the operators in the Wall-street markets. In the stress of war times it was to Wall street that the government turned for help. It was from Wall street that the assistance came which made a continuance of the government a possibility. Wall street has saved the nation more than once, and may have to do it again. It has always been ready to respond to any call, public or private, where financial or business problems were to be solved and the financial health of the nation preserved.

It is very true that men have used as gamblers the opportunities afforded by solved and the financial health of the nation preserved.

It is very true that men have used as gamblers the opportunities afforded by Wall street, but these are not the men who have made it reflective of the business prosperity not only of this but of other countries; nor are they the men who manage what may properly be termed the statesmanship of banking. Wall street is a place where surplus money from all over the world flows for investment. Investment in what? In the securities of the corporations which are dependent upon the material development of this country—the greatest land under God's good sunlight.

No, indeed, we cannot do without Wall street.

est land under God's good sunlight.

No, indeed, we cannot do without Wall street.

How would our 180,000 miles of railroads have been constructed without Wall street. These great ploneers of development, prosperity and civilization would have remained exceedingly limited in their extent and scope if the bonds to build them had not been negotiated by Wall-street financiers.
Think of the fertile lands that these networks of locomotion have opened to millions from all nations of the globe, and the enormous increase of wealth they have thus imparted by the development of our vast national resources to our own country—if we only estimate the average value to the country of every adult immigrant at $1000, the lowest economic calculation.

the average value to the country of every adult immigrant at $1000, the lowest economic calculation.

Then, again, look at the army of employees connected with the railroads themselves, better paid than they could be for the same physical and intellectual ability in any other department of human energy. These employees, including those who work in all the trades that contribute to railroad building, car building and railroad building, car building and railroad supplies of every description, amount to nearly two millions. What a power these would be in politics if they should only unite for any purpose! Talk of the Knights of Labor and the fear they once inspired when they did not exceed half a million; they would be small compared with an organization of railroad employees.

While it is unfortunately true, as I have pointed out in my book, "Twenty-eight Years in Wall Street," and in other publications, that disreputable railroad projectors and managers, have, especially through the medium of construction companies, made use of railroad system, propagated by Wall street capital, has been chiefly instrumental in the marvelous increase of this nation, which has no historic parallel for growth, having, in a century, increased from three to sixty millions of inhabitants. Wall street is not only indispensable to this county but foreign nations are feeling the necessity of its existence more and more every day.

eign nations are feeling the necessity of its existence more and more every day.

Wall street, and Wall street mainly, is rapidly making New York the financial center of the world. The London stock exchange and the Paris and Berlin bourses would become insufferably dull if the New York stock exchange were to be closed for a week or for a day. Hence the progress of great industries dependent on them would languish accordingly in the same way that railroad, telegraph and other enterprises would suffer here if deprived of Wall street, the great financial fountain from which they draw their most invigorating tonic.

In fact, enterprise everywhere would be depressed as if selzed by a sort of financial "la grippe." It would be the very height of folly to think of dispensing with Wall street. Our great financial center is fast approaching the point at which it is destined to become the great clearing-house of the world's enterprises and industries. In the course of evolution and a higher civilization we may yet be able to get along comfortably without Congress, but without Wall street, never.

HENDEL STILL MISSING.

William Hendel, who was charged by Mr. Barker of Villa street with disturbing his peace, has evidently vanished into thin air, as no traces of him have been found. This morning Constable Slater was discovered by a citizen digging in his backyard, and was asked if he thought Hendel had sunk into the ground, but he disclaimed search in that direction. Every effort has been made to locate him, but without avail. Those who have conversed with the man say that he is undoubtedly violently insane at times, and it is suspected that one of these artacks may have come upon him while he was searching for Constable Slater. It has developed that he actually went to the City Hall to inquire for the constable, but nothing has been heard of his course after he left that building.

The man injured at Echo Mountain on Wednesday afternoon, concerning which accident but meager details were then obtainable, has proven to be Thomas Smith. Three workmen were engaged upon a trolly line repair, and were working upon the top of a scaffold, which was attached to a car drawn by a mule. As they were being drawn along a part of the frame caught on an overhead wire. The command was given to the mule to stop, but it refused to obey, and the upper part of the scaffold was broken, precipitating the three men down the sides of the canyon. Two of them fell in such a way that they were not injured, but Mr. Smith tumbled down the side of the gorge for about forty feet, and was cut about the head and bruised internally.

The camp meeting of the Methodist Episcopal Church for the Los Angeles district now in progress in the City Park, is proving one of especial interest and great success. The meetings are held in the mammoth tent just vacated by the G.A.R. The attendance from the surrounding charges is quite large. Los Angeles, Perris, Riverside Pomona, Monrovia, Santa Ana, Alhambra, Whittier, San Férnando are represented. Fifteen among the ablest ministers of the conference are in attendance. The preaching has been of an unusually high order. The singing under the direction of Rev. B. C. Cory has been soul-inspiring. The altar services have been under the direction of Rev. C. C. McLean, pastor of Simpson Tabernacle, Los Angeles, who has been untiring in his efforts, and possesses wonderful adaptation for his work. The meeting is under the direction of the pastor of the Banta Monica church, aided by a committee of laymen. It is a universal sentiment that in deep appirituality, profound religious feeling, this meeting has not been surpassed by any on this Coast. The meeting here has been free from excitement and noise, and the best of order has prevailed. Many of those in attendance are here for the first time, and all express themselves as delighted with Santa Monica and the services, and freely express the opinion that here is the place for a permanent camp ground. The meetings will close with a grand jubilee service on Sunday night, August 28.

The Catholic fair opened at the bathhouse last evening with as large an attendance as the rooms would accommodate, and every indication that the occasion would prove highly satisfactory. REDLANDS.

REDLANDS, Aug. 22.—(Regular Correspondence.) The American Protective Association of this city, it is understood, entertained sixty or seventy members of the A.P.A. of Riverside Wednesday night, about fifty of the visiting brethren coming by train and the balance driving overland. The nome society turned out in large num-pers, and it is claimed that McGinnis Hall was packed. A musical and liter-ary programme was gone through with, refreshments served, and on the whole it was probably the largest demonstra-tion of the kind which has ever taken place in Redlands.

The thieves gained entrance by picking the lock of the front door, or unlocking it by key. The silverware had not been left in the house, and nothing is missed as yet.

TALKING ABOUT THE RECENT TAX

gramme for the Coming Flesta

SAN BERNARDINO, Aug. 22.—(Reg-ular Correspondence.) The tax levy of the city, published in yesterday's correspondence, is occasioning considerable comment, especially about the City Hall. The only increase is in the estimate for water. In every other de-partment economy will have to be practiced if the city lives within its partment economy will have to be practiced if the city lives within its income. The receipts of the city from other sources than taxes promise to be less than last year, and, taking reduction in assessed valuation into consideration, a conservative estimate places the city's income for the coming year at $6000 less than the present.

The management of the street department is a luxury which is costing the city about $1000 a month at present and has since the present administration came into power. This statement has nothing to do with the quality of the work furnished. That may have been worth all it cost, but the fact remains that last year the average cost of the street department was $600 per month, as against $1000 at present, and if the city is preparing to economize, Street Superintendent Flory must reduce the cost of his department fully 50 per cent.

The expenses in the other departments are small. Two cents to the park fund may keep the weeds out of the city's play ground, but it will not lay out many new walks or plant beds of new flowers.

A reduction of 1 cent in the library fund means that no new books will be had for another year, and the trustees will be in luck it they keep up current expenses and pay for the periodicals now received.

The general fund, out of which salaries are paid and from which transfers to other funds are made, promise to be the worst depleted of any, and where city officers' salaries are to come from for the year is bothering more than one employee about the City Hall. An era of hard times seems to be awaiting them.

WATER FOR GRAPELAND. G. W. French and A. A. Grayhan have filed a notice of water location, appropriating all the water in Long's Canyon, one of the western branches of Lytle Creek Canyon, to the amount of 500 inches. This includes the water now flowing in the canyon, the underflow, and what may be developed. The location of the diverting point is about one and one-quarter miles from Grapeland tunnel, and it is the intention to use the water on lands in the Grapeland tract.

WHICH IS DOUGLASS?

The Sheriff's office received notice of the capture of a party supposed to be J. E. Douglass, the murderer of Neal, who was killed near Hesperia some weeks ago, from two different points, and more than a thousand miles apart. One was from Los Angeles, and the other from Atlanta, Tex.

The telegram from Texas gave a fairly good description of Douglass, and added that he was on the move, and that if an arrest was to be made it must be at once. An answer was sent asking that the man be held and a picture was forwarded at once. As soon as this is received word will be wired to the Texas people telling them whether they have the right man or not. The officers are hopeful that the Texas arrest may prove to be the long-sought outlaw. They are confident that when he left the scene of the murder he escaped through the mountains and across the east line of the State, and are stronger in this opinion because Douglass's people live in that part of the country, and he came to California from that State.

It will require two or three days for the photograph to be received, and then the identity of the man under arrest may be determined.

THE FIESTA.

THE FIESTA. The complete programme for the three days' flesta which is to be held in this city September 16, 17 and 18, in commemoration of the eighty-fifth aniniversary of Mexican independence, will probably be announced tomorrow. The committee is hard at work and making choice of the features which they wish to present, and hope to be ready to make public the result of their labors tomorrow or Saturday at the farthest. The pavilion or amphitheater in which the most of the performances will be given, will be an immense structure, built specially for the fleats, and with a seating capacity of 6000. The plans may subsequently be enlarged, so that the number of people to be accommodated may be increased.

The pavilion will probably be located near the corner of First and E streets, convenient to all railroads, and visitors may be landed at its doors. It is proposed now that the ring shall have a circumference of 360, which will give it a diameter of nearly 120 feet. The seats are to be built in banks, rising one above another and extending around the inside of the pavillon.

SANTA BARBARA COUNTY.

DISCUSSING A WAGON-ROAD TO THE CUYAMA RIVER.

A Proposition to Make Santa Crus Island a Summer Resort—A Swindler on a Bioyele—Two Bogus Oil Experts—An Amateur Botanist.

SANTA BARBARA, Aug. 22.—(Regular Correspondence.) At its next regular meeting the Santa Barbara Board of Trade will take up the consideration of the building of a road from this point to the Cuyama River. This question has been discussed spasmodically, but it is only now that any united action is determined upon.

to the Cuyama River. This question has been discussed spasmodically, but it is only now that any united actions is determined upon.

If this road is built it will increase the settlement and the trade of a large section of government land, situated in the northeastern part of this county, and adjoining it, in the counties of Ventura, Kern and San Luis Obispo; comprising a series of valleys practically, converging at the mouth of Santa Barbara Canyon, on the Upper Cuyams River. The hundreds of settlers there, now go through the hot San Joaquin Valley, a journey of from sixty to eighty miles, to trade at Bakershed.

A pleasant and well-watered mountain road of thirty-five miles, from a good road now already built up Santa Barbara. Canyon, about ten miles to the mouth of Romero Canyon, in Montectio, is entirely practicable by way of Mono Creek, Blue and Romero canyons. Such a rond would bring to this city the trade of that section by a route of forty-five to sixty miles, and would vastly increase the settlement of a good country now so nearly isolated as to discourage settlers. This road would also make this city the outfitting points for tourists to the Yosemite from all Southern California.

On the 20th inst four wagon-loads of such tourists passed homeward through here from the Yosemite, by way of San Luis Obispo county, to San Bernardino county. Great numbers of the San Joaquin people, who are now spending the heated term at Sants Monica, Pismo and other seande resorts, would drive to this vicinity, if they had a direct road. The citizens of Santa Barbara, who have been over the route spoken of, tell of numberless springs and camping places along the road, and these would attract and prolong the stay of annual visitors in the summer time to this vicinity, and, with the completion of the railroad, would make this city an unrivaled summer resort. If Santa Barbara will build the thirty-five miles of this road here-tofore mentioned in this article, the citizens at the other end of the road are willing to continue

AN ISLAND RESORT.

Justinian Caire of San Francisco, owner of Santa Crus Island in the Santa Barbara Channel, proposes to make an island resort of it after the manner and style of Santa Catalina Island. Mr. Caire is now at Catalina taking notes to use when he begins work at Santa Cruz. Other parties are interested in this enterprise with Mr. Caire, and there is no doubt of their ability to command all the money necessary for the undertaking. A magnificent hotel will be erected, and the island made a first-class resort. The natural attractions of Santa Crus are said to surpass those of Catalina.

An Associated Press dispatch from Sacra-mento last evening said: "If the facts of the Howland case are as have been reported in the Bee, I conas have been reported in the Bee, I can sider his imprisonment at San Quentin an outrage," said State Prison Director R. T. Devlin, today, with reference to an editorial which appeared in last Monday's Bee. Therein it was set forth that a rich man named Howard, Monday's Bee. Therein it was set forth that a rich man named Howard, a prominent church member of Pasadena, recently disturbed a meeting of Spiritualists in that city which was being addressed by Rev. Henry E. Howland, a Baptist minister. Howland had Howard arrested for "disturbing a religious meeting," but the justice of the peace discharged him on the ground that a meeting of Spiritualists was not a religious meeting. Thereupon Howard had Howland arrested for perjury in swearing to the complaint, and the latter is now serving a term of two years in San Quentin prison.

The Bee denounced the affair as an infamous trayesty on justice, and declared that it was the plain duty of the State Board of Prison Directors to investigate, and if the facts were found to be as stated, to recommend the unconditional pardon of Howland.

Director Devlin declared very plainly that if the story has been correctly told, Howland was railroaded to prison. At the next meeting of the board, Mr. Devlin will call for an investigation of the case.

A Coming Contest.

A Coming Contest.

Quite a number of people yesterday wended their way out to the classic precincts of Contractor D. F. Donegan's corral, corner, of Sand and Montreal streets, to look at the vicious stallion which had been brought in from the country to combat with Prof. Gleason in the arena at Hazard's Pavilion this evening. The animal is a fine specimen of horsefiesh, but shows a temper that is Satanic. Though securely tied in a box stall, he tried hard to eat up the visitors who cautiously peered at him through the door at long range. The horse is expected to make a good fight. Quite a number of people yesterday
